A year flickers by...

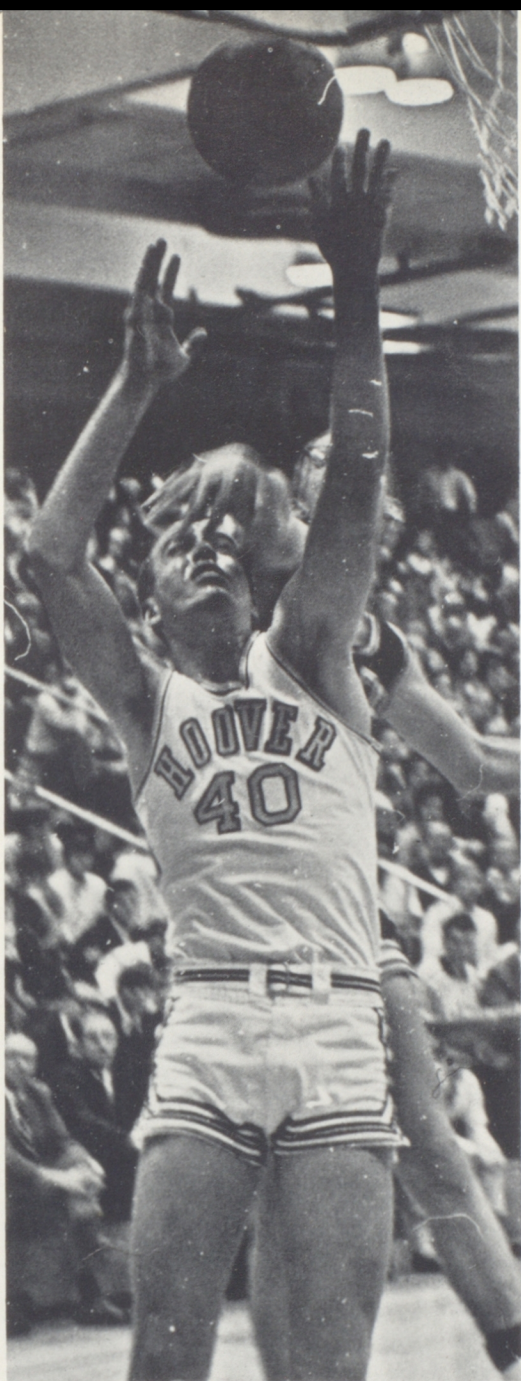

a conglomeration of events, people, emotions

the days, weeks, and months, like a motionless kaleidoscope, are seemingly arranged into a perfect,
geometric pattern;

however, just as a twist of the kaleidoscope
alters the colorful design, so will a single incident or individual alter a personality. Hoover High School is our kaleidoscope, and we are the patterns.

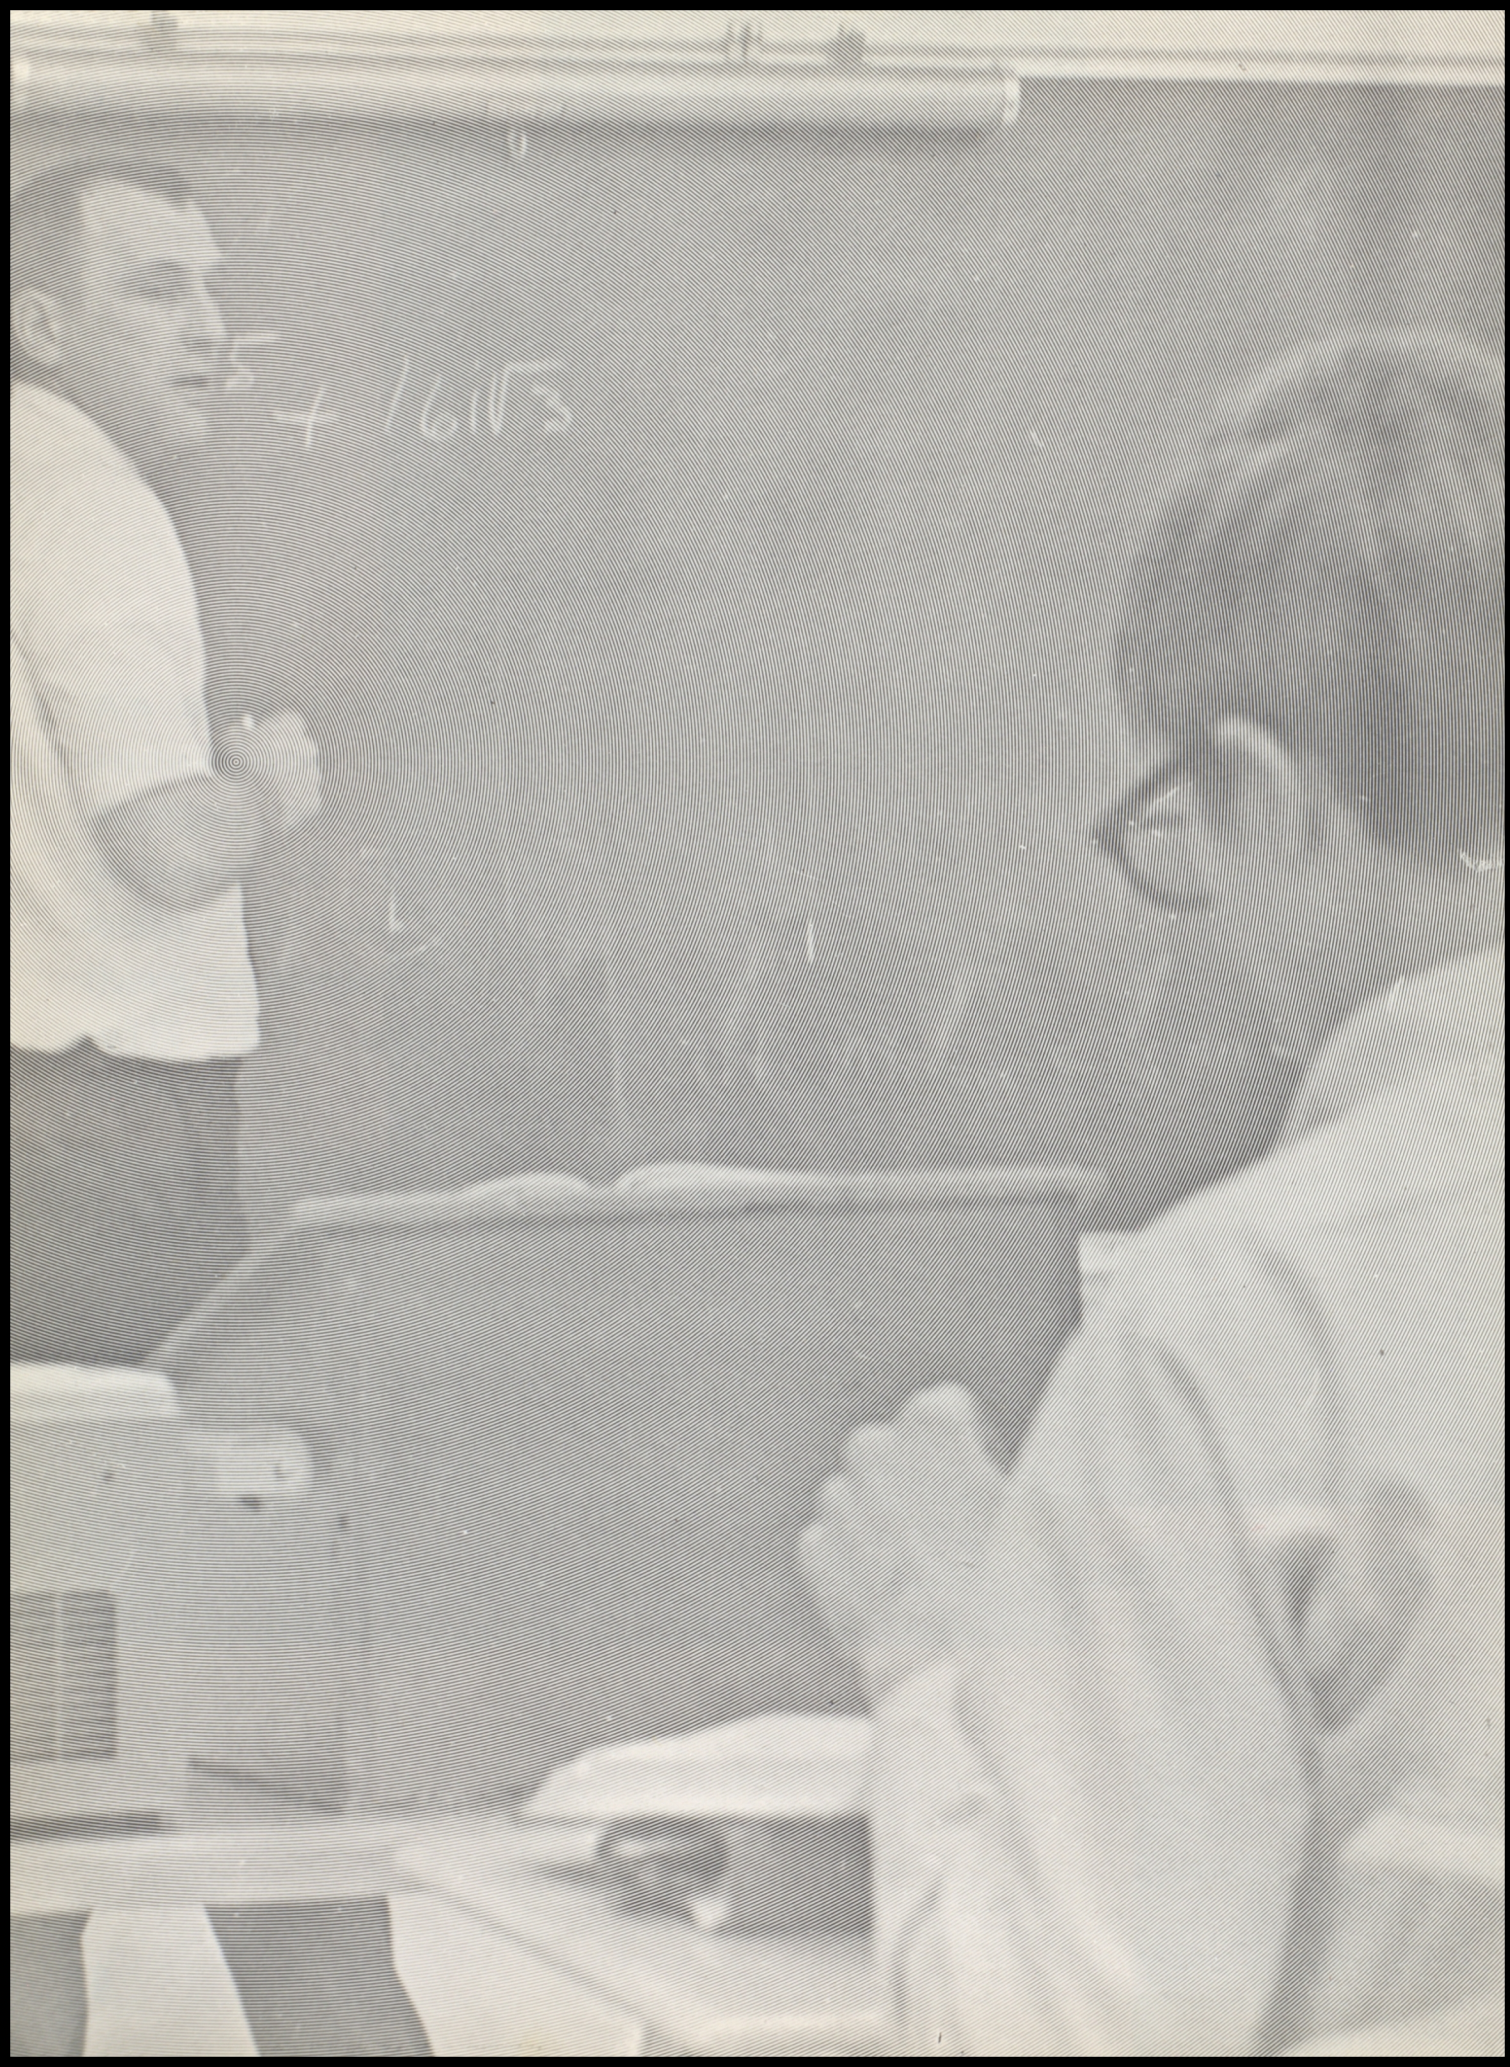

We exist, trying to understand these changes, searching, grasping at things today that weren't there yesterday and will be gone tomorrow.

Life goes on, and our perspectives change.

PERSPECTIVES OF ACADEMICS

Administrators lead students in building Hoover's reputation

Student - administration cooperation was one of the key factors in the activities of Hoover High School. Because of the open-mindedness of the top three administrators, the school gained a city-wide reputation of being a well-run, liberal institution.

Sponsorship of a student advisory board, supervision of senior board, acting as Girls' Club advisor, and working to obtain Hoover's accreditation from the North Central Association were among the many duties of Dr. Donald Wetter, Miss Vera Kendall, and Mr. Wendell Miskimins.

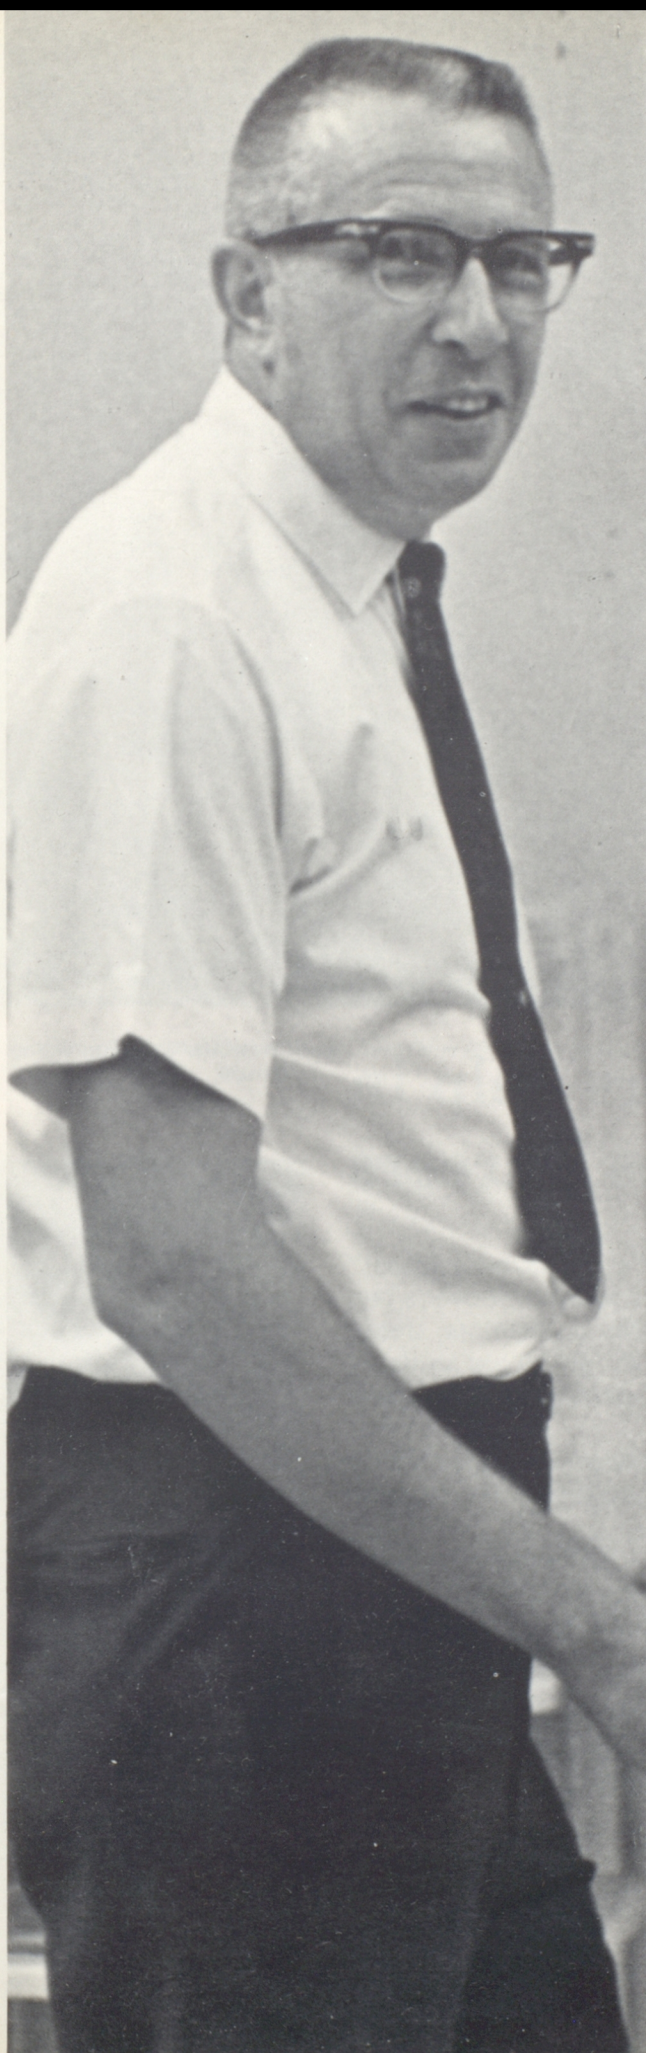

As principal, Dr. Wetter was responsible for all the activities that took place at Hoover. Miss Kendall and Mr. Miskimins, as girls' and boys' advisors, served as counselors to the students.

"And here's where we keep the flashcards for our college math classes," explains Dr. Wetter to some Open House visitors.

"Look Herbie, here comes another visitor!" exclaims Dr. Wetter to his toy huskie.

Counselors help in schedules, careers

"Now Marti, you know they Carroll."

"Don't change that, it's my favorite class!" was a comment often heard around Hoover's two counseling offices. The three counselors, under Mr. Ken Wittkop, director, sought to aid students in scheduling, career planning, and personal problems.

Both offices were equipped with information on jobs and many college catalogues for students to browse through.

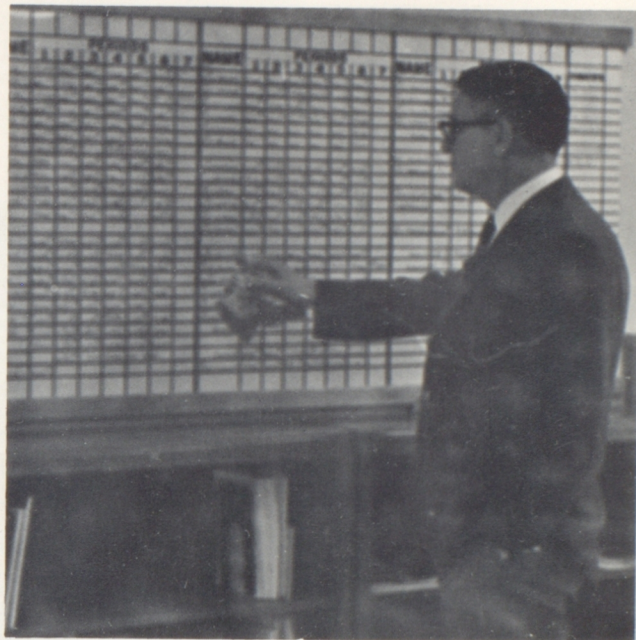

The counselors experienced a major personnel change when Mrs. Sylvia Hathaway left at the end of first semester and was replaced by Mrs. Margaret Campbell.

Head counselor Mr. Ken Wittkop checks the scheduling board for the size of classes.

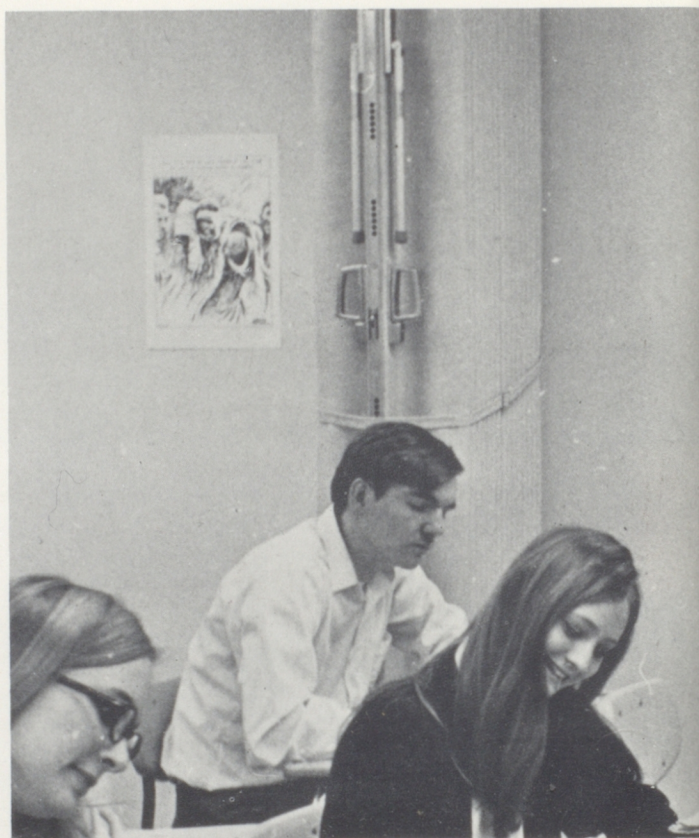

"I know its' in here someplace!" exclaims Kathy McKee, a counseling aide.

"Which way to the dome? Which way to the dome?" ask seniors as they visit the Legislature.

"Well, when I was at Iowa State . . .," reminisces Mr. Willits to his class.

Soc. Sci. teachers attempt stimulating interest in problems

The Social Science department, by means of various teaching methods, stimulated student interest in historical and political problems and tried to give them a good social education.

Teaching methods used by teachers included simulations, speakers, films and use of resource material.

The Model United Nations, trips to the legislature and the United Nations trip to New York and Washington, D.C. were outside projects of the social science department.

"Lights, camera, action!" Bruce Allen, Ann Schulz, Bill Knapp and Dennis Strode film student life for humanities.

Relevancy guides English teachers

Relevancy was the guiding factor of the Hoover English instructors. Applying this idea in their teaching methods, they attempted to teach students to communicate and to appreciate literature.

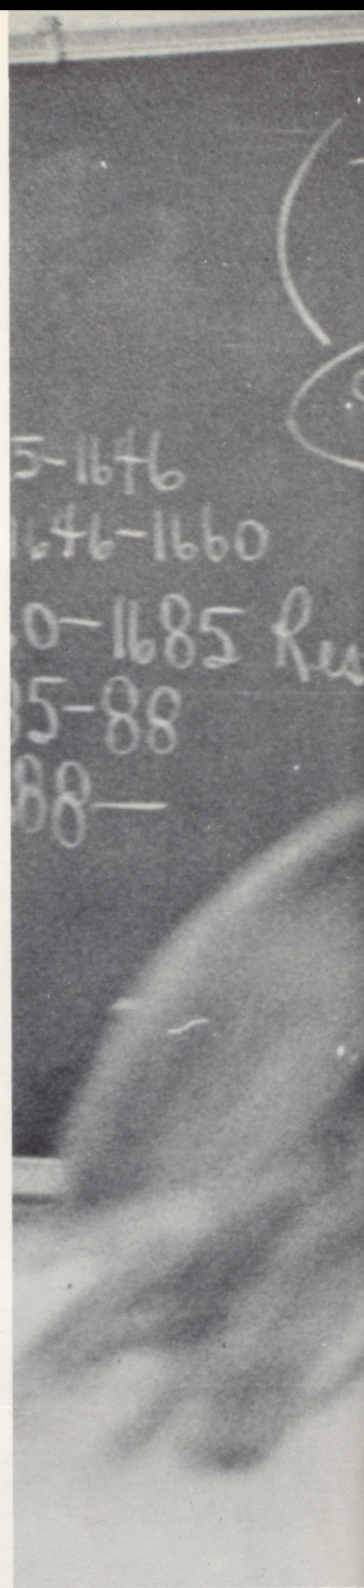

A new teaching technique was tried this year with sophomore classes. Instead of an established English course, students were given a group of two week "mini-courses" to choose from. This allowed for individualized schedules, that included courses that students were most interested in.

Team-teaching helps big science classes

The teachers in the science department attempted to acquaint their students with all aspects of science. This attempt included using special equipment and lab materials and knowing how to apply their scientific knowledge to everyday life.

Because of the large size of the biology classes, the three teachers of that course used team-teaching in order to know students better and utilize the available equipment best.

Chemistry students wrack their minds over ETS tests.

Math teachers try to enliven subject

Throughout history, mathematics has had a reputation of being dull. The math teachers at Hoover attempted to disprove that idea by introducing new ways of teaching the subject. Field trips, various projects, and a kite contest helped to make it more interesting.

The math department also boasted one of the more unusual classes to be found at Hoover, that of math appreciation. Students in the course related art, music, literature, games, and architecture to math.

Crafts class added to Art curriculum

Allowing students to work within their own interests, regardless of talent, was the motive of the Hoover Art department.

Operating under the direction of Mrs. Esther Elliott, the department was enlarged this year by the addition of a crafts class, taught by Mrs. Glenda Chateauvert during fifth hour.

Some of the departments' projects were permanent art displays throughout the building and a spring display in the student center.

"Red is #1, blue is #2,..." thinks Chris Dozoryst as she slaves over a "paint-by-number" in art class.

Musicians learn by playing for others

The music department provided a program designed to develop individual talents.

Under the direction of Mr. Willard Marquardt, the vocal music section of the music department performed "The Messiah" at Christmas and participated in "Oklahoma", the spring musical.

Band and orchestra, with Mr. Robert Donald as supervisor, held concerts throughout the year. Marching band could be seen at home football games and the Drake relays parade. Pep assemblies and basketball games were the areas of performance for Pep Band.

Language teachers stress understanding of foreign cultures

In order to give foreign language students a well-rounded language program, teachers made extensive use of outside materials. Going beyond the basics of learning to speak, write, read, and hear a language correctly, these instructors introduced such learning aids as skits, guest speakers, the study of a foreign language novel, and trips to such places as a foreign food restaurant.

Through these methods, the students were able to gain a better understanding of the people and culture of their particular country. The teachers also felt this would not only help pupils understand the people of foreign countries, but would also give them a chance to appreciate their own culture.

Phys. Ed. classes stress fundamentals

In spite of the time and effort put forth by the physical education department in extra-curricular sports activities, these instructors still found time to provide Hoover students with a well-balanced physical education program.

Much emphasis was put on teaching pupils the fundamentals of various sports activities. These included units in archery, basketball, football, gymnastics, soccer, swimming, indoor recreation, physical fitness, and both modern and folk dancing. A special unit in senior life-saving was also provided for those interested.

Business education prepares students for future jobs

Giving students a basic business education and vocational competence were the basic goals of the business education department. Among the classroom subjects offered were: shorthand, bookkeeping, clerical practice, beginning typing, general business, and record keeping.

Combining on-the-job training with related occupational study in the classroom, Distributive Education served as a means of training students for the business world. One of the projects of the group was the regular arrangement of a display case.

Pupils create in Home Economics, Industrial Arts

Designing and decorating their own home, observation of different groups of children, garment construction, and ways of preparing foods were the projects of students enrolled in Hoover's homemaking classes.

Another course offered was Family Living.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

Acquainting students with all aspects of woodworking, metals, electronics, and drafting were the duties of the Industrial Arts teachers at Hoover. The instructors went a step further and attempted to instill a sense of pride, craftsmanship, and knowledge in the students.

Another Hoover first was produced when two girls enrolled in Woodworking I.

Driver Ed. gives practical experience

By the use of classroom instruction, simulated and actual car driving, driver education students were able to gain practical driving experience, learn driving rules and regulations, and become good defensive drivers.

Professional people spoke throughout the year on such areas as alcohol, drugs, and insurance.

"Today we are going to learn how to turn on the ignition..."
explains Mr. Stark to a prospective driver.

"You'd better eat this kid," jokes Mrs. Thompson, cafeteria manager.

Jobs of personnel take on many forms

Although the roles they played at Hoover kept them for the most part in the background, the school personnel played an integral role in the operation of the school.

Their duties were many and included anything from making a counselors appointment to opening a jammed locker. They kept Hoover clean for the students, made the lunches, read daily announcements, and did dozens of other things that had to be done. The efficiency displayed at Hoover would have been greatly reduced without these staff members always there and ready to do the job.

Student helpers work in library

Boasting the only listening-viewing center in the city, the Hoover library started off its third year of operation with the addition of more books and the purchase of movie projectors, tape recorders, and slide projectors.

This year, the three librarians were aided in their duties not only by student assistants, but by boys trained to handle the audio-visual equipment.

PERSPECTIVES OF ORGANIZATIONS

'Cheap Thrills' heads fall Council activities

First semester Student Council, under the direction of faculty sponsor Richard Parker and president Blake Blakesley undertook a variety of projects. These included sponsorship and over-all co-ordinating of the October Homecoming festivities, a fund drive for St. Jude's Hospital and the "Cheap Thrills" folk concert in December.

Ann Gerdon headed the committee to publish the student directories, and the council also tried to end vandalism at Hoover.

The other officers were: Ned Skinner, vice-president; Marcia Morris, secretary, and Debbie Miller, treasurer.

Student Council enlarges activities

Broad-ranged activities involved members of the spring Student Council, as students participated in several events in the community besides Hoover functions.

A legislature committee was formed, with George Lawson as chairman to visit the state legislature and discuss current issues. Students also planned a clean-up campaign and events to correspond with Earth Day, April 22.

The formation of the Student Action Party (SAP) prior to the election of spring officers was a vital factor in the renewed support of the council. SAP members created a party platform and stirred interest among the student body.

Hoover sponsored Cheap Thrills II and two nights of movies. Other events sponsored by the All-city Student Council were Exchange Day, Jamboree and the All-city Dance.

1970 service award is highlight for girls

The first week of school Girls' Club kicked off their many activities of the year with the Big-Little Sister Tea. This was followed by the sale of mums for Homecoming, the Cake-Off, and Spirit Breakfast during Spirit Week. The Julia B. Mayer Center was the scene of a children's Halloween party. Hoover's first Slave Day was followed by a food collection for a needy family at Thanksgiving. Christmas found members decorating a tree at the Polk County Home and holding a party at the Chesterfield Opportunity Center.

Second semester activities centered mainly on school. "Sugar and Spice" was the theme of the Valentine's Dance, which was followed by Fun Night and the first "Hoover Athlete's Day."

Highlighting the semester was the receipt of the Volunteer Bureau Service Award for 1970. This award, one of six in the city, was for the work of Girls' Club in service projects.

Boys' Club sponsors rallies, ball game

Spirit Ribbons, car rallies, the Christmas Dance, and the Student-Faculty basketball game were the main projects of the Boys' Club this year. Officers were Jeff Snedden, president; Mark Wells, vice-president; and Forrest Horn, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Hal Bordy was the faculty sponsor.

Athletic excellence is aim of Lettermen

To strive for excellence in athletics at Hoover, and to unite the students behind athletics and sportsmanship were the goals of Lettermen's Club, under the presidency of Ted Christensen.

Selling shirts and T-shirts to pay for the locker room stereo, purchasing school athletic equipment, and attempting to stop smoking in the restrooms were the projects of the group this year.

Other 1969-70 officers were: Mark Scherer, vice-president; and secretary-treasurer, Vince Peterson.

ART CLUB

Art Club provided opportunities for interested students to engage in art work, regardless if they were already taking an art course.

One project of the club was the formation of permanent art displays throughout the building. The math center was the recipient of a ceramic plaque which was made by Arn Grotenfelt as an Art Club project.

Chris Dozoryst served as president, and Mrs. Esther Elliott as sponsor.

CREATIVE WRITING CLUB

First semester of the 1969-70 school year saw the formation of the first writing club at Hoover, the Creative Writing Club, under the direction of Mr. Jerry Wadden. Membership was composed of interested students who enjoyed writing. The group published magazines throughout the year that included any writing done by the students.

Judy Harty and Chris Dozoryst work on their art creations.

DECA participates in on-job training

One of the more unique organizations at Hoover was the Distributive Education Club. Students participating in this organization attended classes at Hoover in the morning and worked at retail stores for on-the-job training in the afternoon. They received graduation credit and pay while they worked.

First semester officers were: Chris Clark, president; Bob Weeter, vice-president; Charlene La Mar, secretary; Mike Hartchens, treasurer; Barb Portel, historian; and Kurt Bendixen, parliamentarian. Officers for the second semester were: Chris Clark, president; Frank Keiter, vice-president; Cathy Flesher, secretary; Tom Daniels, treasurer; Nancy Grandquist, historian; and Kurt Bendixen, parliamentarian.

Cheerleaders boost spirit, team morale

Helping boost team morale and building spirit within the school were the jobs of the 1969-1970 cheerleading squads. They were on hand at every athletic event in which Hoover participated.

In order to insure the best cheerleading possible, five of the varsity squad members attended a cheerleading clinic in Maryville, Missouri during the summer.

PTA, Booster Club give aid to Hoover

Hoover parents and members of Booster Club show the tremendous support they displayed throughout the basket ball season.

PTA

Dances, Open Houses, foreign students, and the concession stands at baseball games—these were all possible because of help and financial aid given by the Hoover PTA (Parent-Teacher Association).

PTA meetings departed from the usual format of having speakers, so that parents and teachers could be involved in discussion about school and community problems.

Mr. Everett Craft served as president.

BOOSTER CLUB

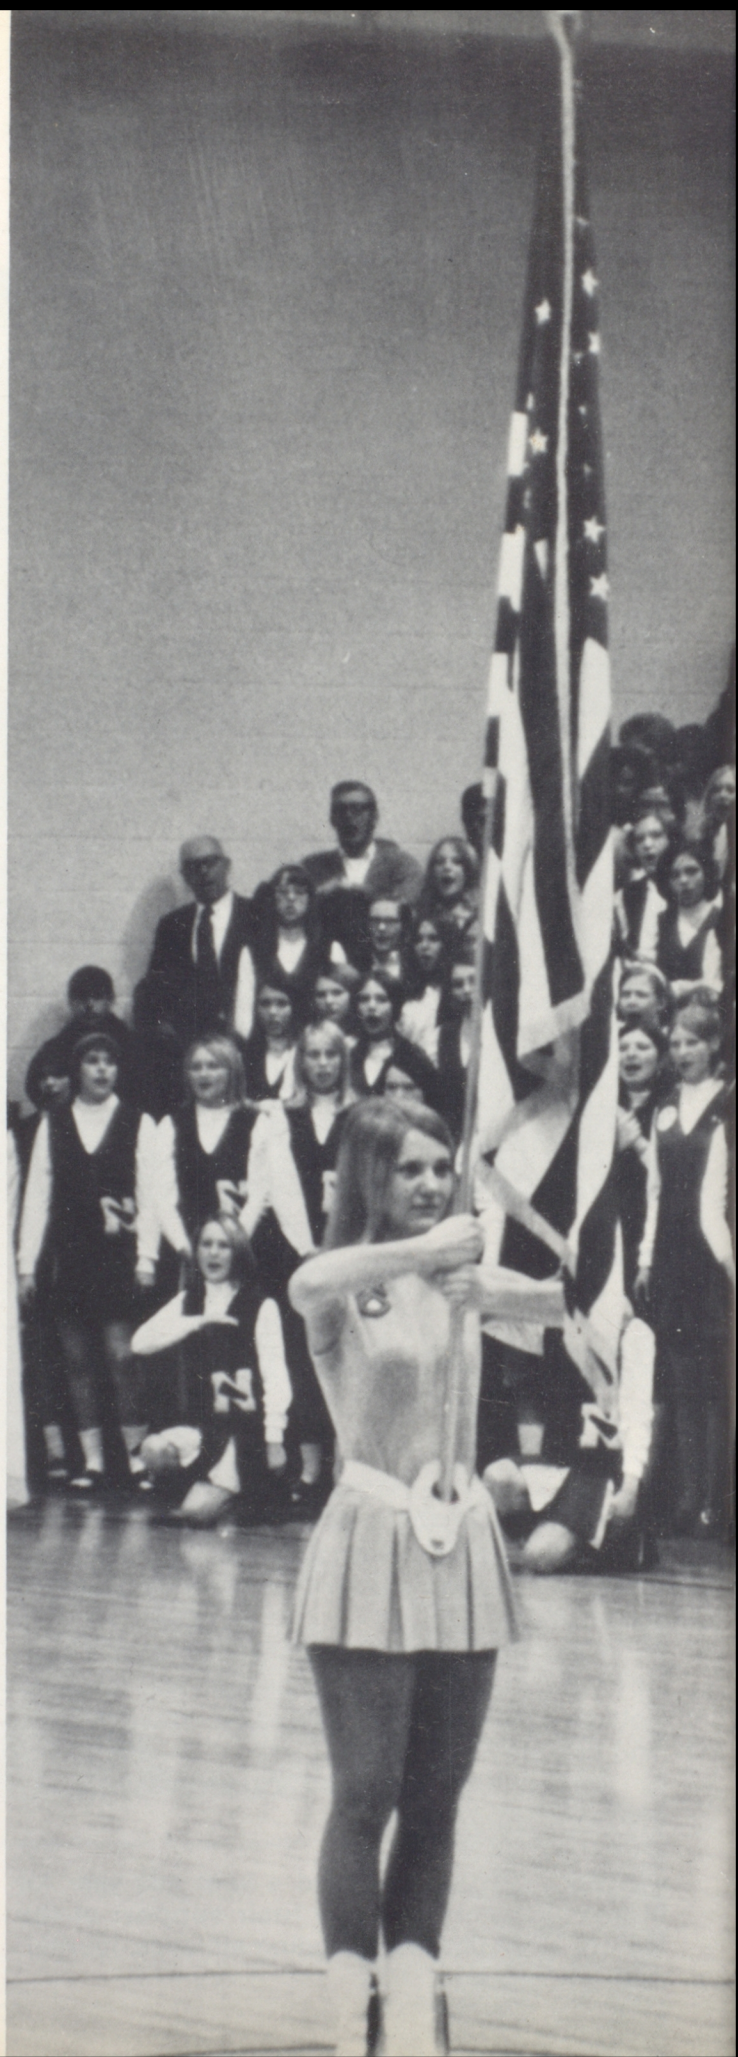

Booster Club provided a vent this year for Hoover parents to show their support of the school in all phases, including athletics, journalism, and music.

Hooverettes march at games, parades

Bettering community relations, teaching self-discipline and realization, and having fun—these were the ideals of Hoover's drill unit, Hooverettes.

Besides marching at Husky athletic events, the 56-member unit was also seen throughout the year at the Drake Relays Parade, Veisha, the Pella Tulip Festival, and Armed Forces Day Parade. They were also chosen to be the official color guard unit of the Memorial Day Parade.

One honor came to the girls at the Drake-North Texas State game when they received a standing ovation from the audience as they formed a "D".

By raising money from the sale of candy, the organization was able to purchase a three drum unit to be used in parades.

Kathy Rathert remains in concentration as the color guard present the flags for the playing of the national anthem.

Fulfilling its' role as a service organization, the Red Cross club sponsored many activities during the school year. The group entertained patients at Veterans Hospital, held a Christmas party for youngsters at the Easter Seal Center, and made Friendship bags for Vietnamese children. They also filled boxes with school and health supplies to send to disaster areas in the U.S.

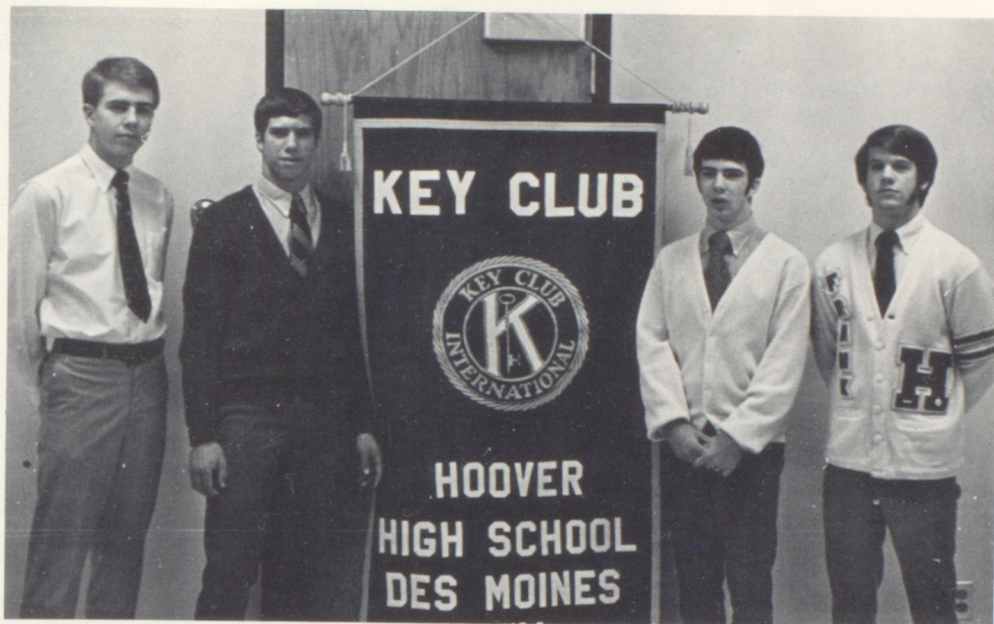

The club operated under Nancy Clark, president; Nancy Lecroy, vice-president; Nancy Christensen, secretary; and Nancy Potter, treasurer.

Key Club raises $200 from sale

Key Club members strived by means of various fund-raising projects to give aid to the community.

Besides having guest speakers at the weekly meetings, members sold seat cushions with the proceeds of $200 going to the Iowa Commission for the Blind. They also collected contributions for the Easter Seal Center and the Salvation Army.

Warren Wilson presents a check for $200 to John Taylor of the Iowa Commission for the Blind. The money came from the sale of seat cushions.

Career clubs serve students' interests

HEALTH CAREERS

With president Joellyn Beck, vice-president Debbie Miller, and faculty sponsor Mrs. Dorothy Boehm, the Health Careers Club Members participated in the "Toys for Tots" collection at Christmas. The club also sponsored Sgt. Paul Bartholomew when he spoke to interested students about drugs.

FHA

Among the wide variety of activities undertaken by the Future Homemakers of America (FHA) were a tour of the Salisbury House, a study of the Peace Corps, tray favors for children at Blank Hospital, and a tour of the Iowa State campus.

The club operated under the direction of president Debbie Miller, vice-president Nancy Potter, secretary LouAnn Bonnewell, and treasurer Noreen Grantman, with faculty sponsor Mrs. Pat Papenheim.

FS

Interest in a secretarial career was stimulated at Hoover by the Future Secretaries Club. Aside from regular business meetings, the club held various field trips and heard speakers. These trips included a visit with secretaries at the Iowa Legislature and a view of offices at Preferred Risk Mutual and Area XI College.

Marti Drummond served as president for the group, Lynn Daggett as vice-president, Vicki Heglund as secretary, and Linda Budrevich as treasurer.

FTA

Visits to Smouse and Slinker Schools, speakers from DMEA and the Des Moines School Board, and acting as teacher-aides at Moore Elementary School were the major activities of the Future Teachers Association (FTA).

Officers for the year were Regina Klemm, president; Gini Colony, vice-president; Marcia Holsinger, secretary; and Koreen Gauld, treasurer.

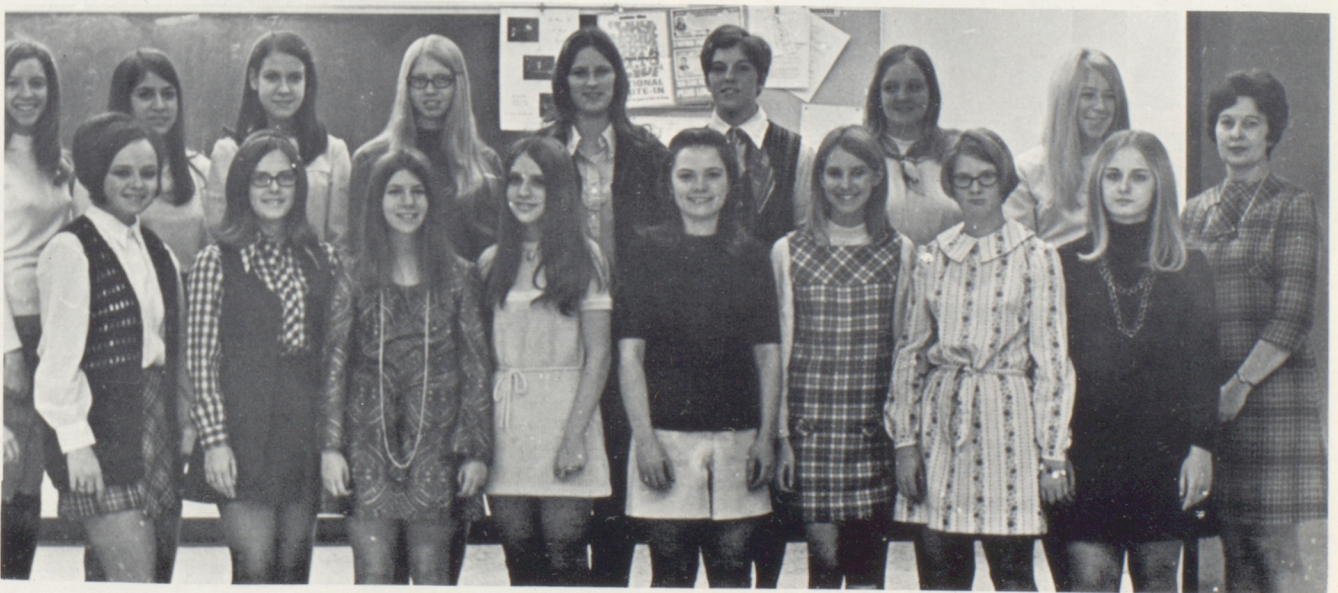

Carol Lucy, FHA member, applies make-up in a demonstration in connection with the Bonnie Bell company.

Ham Radio equipment proves to be an interest to Mark Johns, Gayland Bloethe, and Jon Ahlquist.

Scientific interests served by lab work, computers, radios

COMPUTER CLUB

Computer Club, under the sponsorship of Mr. Joe Zimmerman, gave its members practical experience in the field of computer programming.

At the beginning of the year, the students went to the Computer Programming Center to work out selected problems. Hoover was fortunate this year to receive the Polk County IBM 360 computer for use at school.

LAB ASSISTANTS

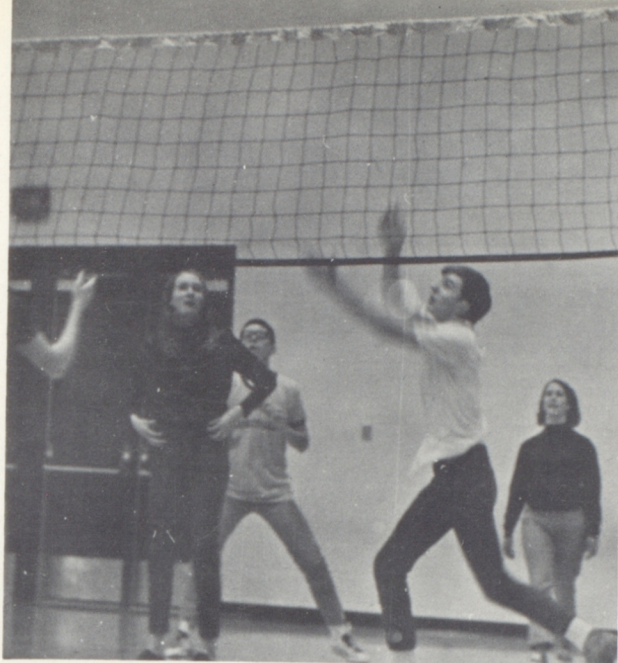

Though no organized science club existed this year, interested students were allowed to work in that department as lab assistants in chemistry and biology. They were mainly responsible for making solutions, getting set up for class experiments, care of animals, and cleaning up equipment.

RADIO CLUB

Ham Radio Club members broadcast off the radio equipment in the "Ham Shack", located off the language study center. Sponsor was Mr. Walter Gronert.

John Ahlquist, Bob Bonomi, and Gayland Bloethe work on problems in Computer Club.

Latin Club heads volleyball tourney

The historic "Ides of March" was remembered and celebrated by a Latin Club banquet this year in which all Des Moines high schools took part. Other activities of the Hoover Latin Club were sponsorship of the first annual International Volleyball tournament and participation in the state Junior Classical League convention April 4.

Serving as president of the group was Rick Wittenbaugh. Peggy Joslin was secretary-treasurer and Daisy Wannamaker was first-year Latin class representative.

Daisy Wannamaker, Tom Hadden, and Nancy Lecroy get into dress for the state Latin convention.

Glee clubs, choir compose vocal unit

Hoover's vocal music classes, under the direction of Mr. Willard Marquardt, were participants in two major productions this year and numerous small concerts. Besides singing in "The Messiah" at Christmas and "Oklahoma", they performed at school assemblies, commencement, and gave a concert at Franklin Junior High.

The classes available consisted of concert choir, girls' glee club, and boys' glee club. Choir wore green robes with gold collars and sleeve linings, while glee club wore green wool dresses with gold scarves. Boys' glee club members wore suits and ties when performing.

Band, Orchestra sponsors concerts

Approximately 65 students composed the Hoover band. With Mark Thomas as drum major, they marched at football games, the Drake relays parade, and played at basketball games.

Six flag twirlers and four baton twirlers were new additions to the group this year.

The 55 member orchestra played for "Oklahoma" and commencement, and performed with the St. Olaf College orchestra in November. They also presented one concert and accompanied choir in "The Messiah."

Rain-soaked band members show they have lots of yelling power at the Dowling football game.

Dancers, leaders show special talent

DANCE CLUB

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Kay Grooters and Miss Diana Skaggs, the Hoover Dance Club engaged in a number of projects throughout the year.

Only in their second year of existence, the dancers held a bake sale in October, performed in the January "Kaleidoscope of Emotions", and entertained patients at Mercy Hospital in March.

Debbie Stetson served as president of the group, Pam Williams as vice-president, Gini Colony as secretary, and Kathy Burns as treasurer.

LEADERS CLUB

The students of the Leaders Club aided physical education teachers in class by leading exercises and refereeing class competitive sports.

Members were picked by Miss Pam Herrick and the group's officers, Holly Peck, president, and vice-president Nan Henderson.

Timers aid swimmers, help publicize events

Thirty girls from all three classes composed the membership of the Hoover Timers Club. Besides timing at boys and girls home swim meets, it was their job to boost team morale, make spirit posters, and hold post-meet parties.

Officers for the 1969-1970 school year were Kathy McKee, president; Ann Danielson, vice-president, and Sue Ransom, secretary.

Husky staff departs from past customs

Much thought, creativity, and long hours of work went into the production of the 1970 Husky.

A thought-provoking theme provided the basis for the staff's effort, that of "Perspection". The staff attempted to convey this idea to the readers by means of appropriate copy and pictures. Division page pictures were printed over a circular line screen and this idea was also repeated on the cover. Copy attempted to show the different "perspectives" of each section.

Departing from set traditions of previous years, the staff made many changes in the year-book. Cover colors became black and white, and the annual was produced under a new staff set-up. Most work fell to the editor-in-chief and four other editors, instead of to several "section editors."

NFL-HFL take part in debate, forensics

With the topic "Resolved: Congress should prohibit unilateral U.S. military intervention in foreign countries" as their guide, the debating members of the National Forensics League (NFL) participated in more than 25 tournaments around Iowa during the months of November through May. These tournaments included the "Hoover Open" held here at Hoover and sponsored entirely by the Hoover Forensic League organization. Thirty other schools competed in the tournament.

Individual events at forensics contests composed the other activities of the group. Officers were: Blake Blakesley, president; Greg Metge, vice-president; Lyn Buckley, secretary; and Marilyn Sandin, treasurer.

Thespians act in school, community drama productions

Hoover's Thespian Society, the largest in Des Moines, kept busy throughout the year constantly working to promote dramatic excellence and to establish Hoover as one of the leading schools for its theater productions.

Besides six school productions, society members participated in playhouse shows and the first all-city musical, "The Boyfriend". Hoover's answer to the Oscar Awards, the Herbert Awards, were presented in the spring for the second year.

1969-70 officers were: Nancy Lynner, president; Karen Biggs, vice-president; Cathy Zinger, secretary; Rick Watson, treasurer; and Blake Blakesley, parliamentarian.

PERSPECTIVES OF ACTIVITIES

"Don't fold, spindle, or mutilate" is the motto of the Girls' Club Finance committee as they assemble Homecoming mums.

"Where are the donuts?" lament students at the Spirit Breakfast. "I can't get spirited on an empty stomach!"

Winners of the Crazy Cake contest are Sandy Griffith, Carol Wandling, Carol Pyle, and Jeannine Hayes, presenting the product of their hard work.

Activities highlight 1969 spirit week

Spirit week of Homecoming 1969 involved many activities, including the wearing of yellow mums, a cake-off, the annual spirit breakfast and the sale of pins and ribbons by Boys' Club.

The queen candidates and junior and sophomore attendants were voted on early in the week, in an election which for the first time involved the whole school.

Tremendous spirit was displayed by the students throughout the week and continued on into the game and its activities. A tunnel was formed by senior members of Hooverettes and Pep Club at the beginning of the game for the team to run through. Presentation of the queen and her court took place at half time. Sponsored by Hooverettes and the band, half-time field activities also included the formation of an "H", a heart, and a crown, as green and gold balloons were released by members of Pep Club.

"Now don't let go!" reminds Pep Club chairman, Dawn Mueller, giving instructions to the balloon distributors for halftime.

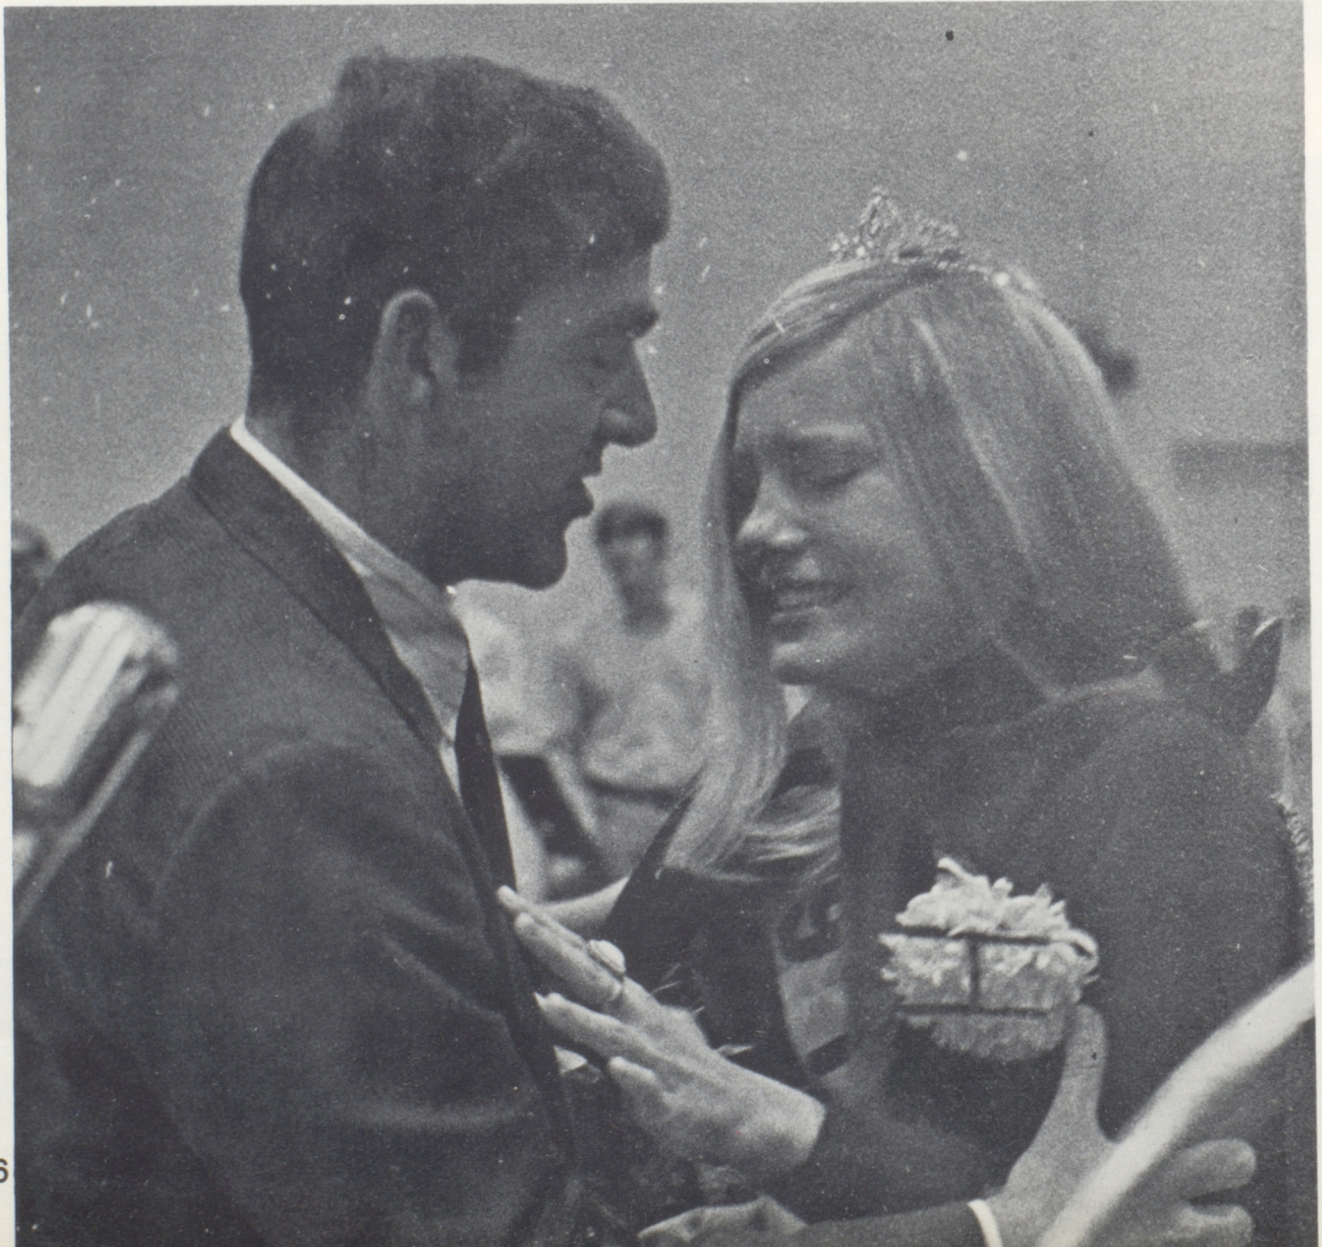

"We're going to win this game and don't you forget it!" Curt Wiley assures the crowd.

Junior Attendant Sue Hayes smiles happily as John John proudly escorts her through the arch.

"Calm down, Karen, and pucker up," comforts Student Council President Blake Blakesley awaiting 'his' moment.

Coronation, dance climax homecoming

A tea for the mothers of the members of the homecoming court, a suspenseful pep assembly, a football victory, and a successful dance climaxed spirit week.

Punch and cake were served to the mothers at the Student Council sponsored tea. Yellow mums were given to them, and they were then escorted to the pep assembly.

Karen Kever, amid tears and shouts of joy, was crowned 1969 Homecoming queen before the student body. Skits, a speech by Paul Wallace, president of Hoover's first graduating class, and rousing cheers added to the excitement of the assembly.

The Homecoming dance, with its theme of "A Time for Us," proved to be one of Hoover's most outstanding. Sponsored by Student Council and under the direction of Karen Kever, the student center was transformed into an Italian restaurant by means of wine bottles, a bar, and red-checked table cloths.

Homecoming doesn't just happen. Sue Carlson and Connie Johnson work to make it a success.

'Very Good Year' is synchronized show

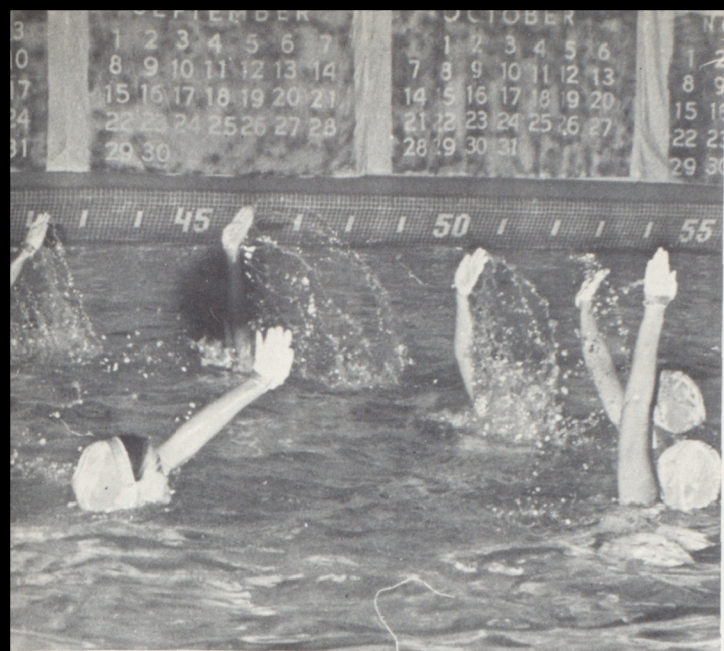

"It Was a Very Good Year" was the theme of the Marlins synchronized show, held December 9, 10, 11 and 13. Numbers related to the twelve months of the year were performed by the girls.

The royalty of this year's show consisted of Queen Debbie Janson and King Rick McAnally, with senior attendants Terri Humpal, Bill Knapp, Joyce Nixson, and Rick Russell; juniors Dave Alsager and Jean Dahlberg; and sophomores Reggie Reynolds and John Gonias.

'Peace' chosen as theme of Noel '70

"Peace" served as the theme of the Christmas Dance, which was sponsored this year by the Boys' Club.

Under the direction of Karen Kever, the Student Center was transformed into a glittering array of green, gold, and white colors. Students ideas about peace were displayed on the Student Center walls and Santa Clause was on hand to greet couples at the door.

Nancy Duff and Ned Skinner find a secluded spot at the Christmas Dance to carry out the theme "Peace".

Jack Huff reigns as 'Man for All Seasons' at Valentine dance

A Gingerbread House, "Lover's Lane," peppermint ice cream, and a boutonniere contest were only a few of the attractions at the annual Girls' Club Valentine Dance, with its' theme of "Sugar and Spice."

Following last year's dance, a second "Man for All Seasons" was named. He was chosen on the basis of his involvement in all school activities. Jack Huff was selected for the honor, out of a group of five senior men, including Warren Wilson, Ned Skinner, Ted Christensen, and Rick McAnally.

Other cast members look on as John Proctor (Rick Ansorge) screams "Whore! Whore!" at Abigail (Janet Olson).

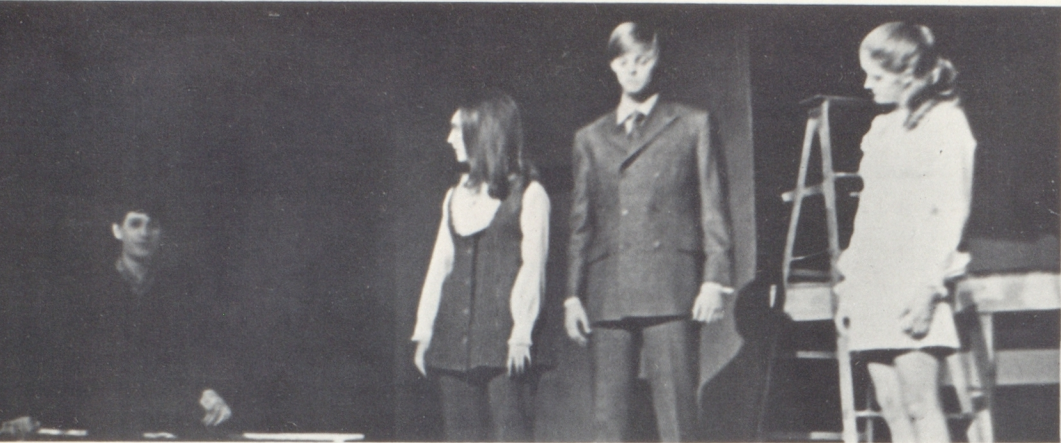

"Look out! She's coming down!" Abigail (Janet Olsen) screams as she accuses her friends of being witches.

'The Crucible' staged for fall production

As its first production of the school year, the Hoover Drama Department produced Arthur Miller's "The Crucible" on Nov. 6, 7, and 8. The play depicted the Salem witch trials of the 17th century, and can be paralleled to the McCarthy era of the 1950's.

Mrs. Ruth Laws, director, and Nancy Lynner, student director, selected a staff consisting mainly of "greenhorns", thus presenting a challenge to themselves and the rest of the cast.

Self-conscious Tony (Roger Fish) tries to point out the importance of the "Impromptu" scene to Winifred (Karen Evans), Ernest (Tom Nelson), and Lora (Sue Carlson).

'Absurdity in Life' theme of one-acts

"The absurdity in life" was the theme of three one-acts, which were presented on the Hoover stage December 4.

The three plays were "Impromptu", directed by student teacher Miss Pam Simpson, "The Lesson" directed by Miss Linda Fuller, and "Where the X is Made" directed by Rick Watson.

Student participation in the production was emphasized by having all sets and costumes designed by them.

The Professor (Craig Christensen) and his maid (Mary Schoemaker) have a conversation in "The Lesson."

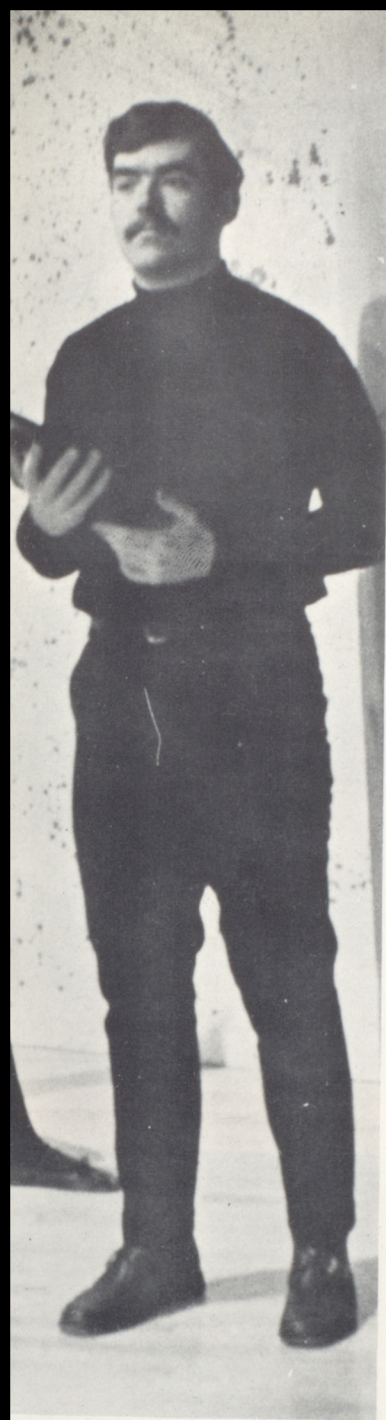

Captain Bartlet (Mark Thomas) explains "Where the X is Made" to his son Nat (Craig Reeves) while Sue (JoEllyn Beck) looks on.

Casually assembled members of Swing Choir present "Try to Remember."

Emotions conveyed in 'Kaleidoscope'

Culture came to Hoover High School February 29 when Dance Club and the art, speech, drama, and music departments presented "Kaleidoscope of Emotions."

Participants in the program attempted to bring emotions alive and to communicate these to the audience. This was done by use of singing, interpretative reading, and modern dancing. A display of student art work was in the student center for the audience to view.

Connie Ingham brings down the house with her favorite "Won't You Come Home Bill Bailey?"

"On Charlie, cut it out!" shouts George (Tom Stanfield) to Charlie (Nancy Lynner) as she once again tries to justify her reincarnation.

One of society's most prominent "hostesses," Rusty Mayerling (Jane Waterbury) consoles George (Tom Stanfield) about the death of Charlie, one of her beaus.

Charlie (Nancy Lynner) gets her first taste of femininity as she leans on the shoulder of her buddy, George (Tom Stanfield).

Reincarnation is seen in play 'Charlie'

George Axelrod's comedy "Goodbye, Charlie" was presented as Hoover's second major production of the year on February 26, 27, 28.

The plot revolved around the problems Charlie, a deceased playboy, encounters when he finds himself reincarnated as a female.

A new attraction was introduced on the Hoover stage as Connie Ingham entertained the audience between acts. She sang songs related to the play.

Mrs. Sharon Anderson was director and Diane Schmacker was student director.

"And then you grab his ears and start pounding his head on the floor," explains Charlie (Nancy Lynner) as she does so the George (Tom Stanfield).

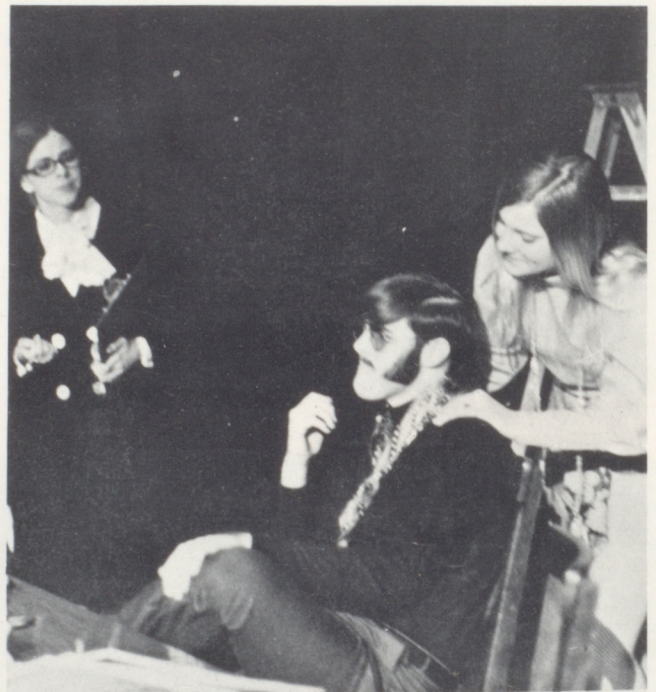

Showing no concern for his punishment, James Dyke (Steve Munzenmaier) ignores the Warden (Blake Blakesley), Jailer (Mark Scherer), and Father Daly (Brooke Billick).

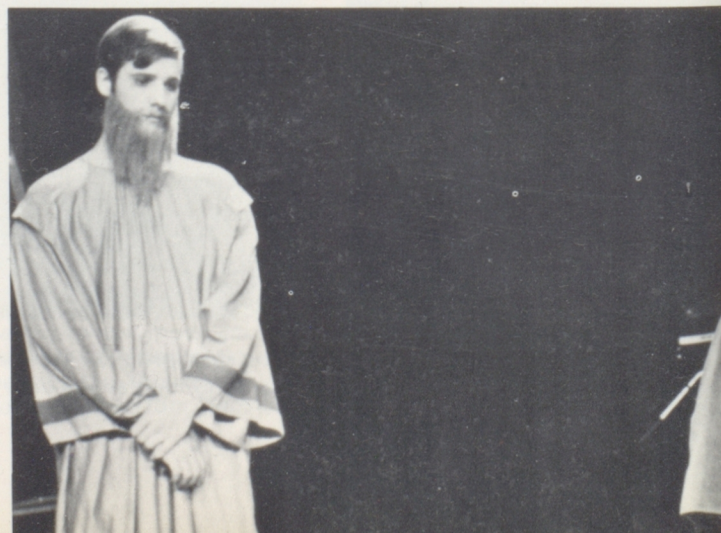

One-acts comprise Thespian production

Following last year's precedent, the Hoover Thespian Society once again presented a series of one-acts that were student produced in every aspect, from directing to costume designs.

"The Valiant," directed by Marcia Morris, was the story of a prisoner who refuses to make his identity known. The second play, "The Marriage Proposal" was the story of an incompatible couple that wants to marry. This was directed by Jeff Snedden. The last play, "Will the Real Jesus Christ Please Stand Up?", directed by Nancy Lynner, was a satire on movie-making and pre-judgment.

Fed up with the Jesus Christ auditions, the Director (Bill Wil-meth) is relaxed by his mistress (Karen Kever) as Miss Burke (Lyn Buckley) waits by.

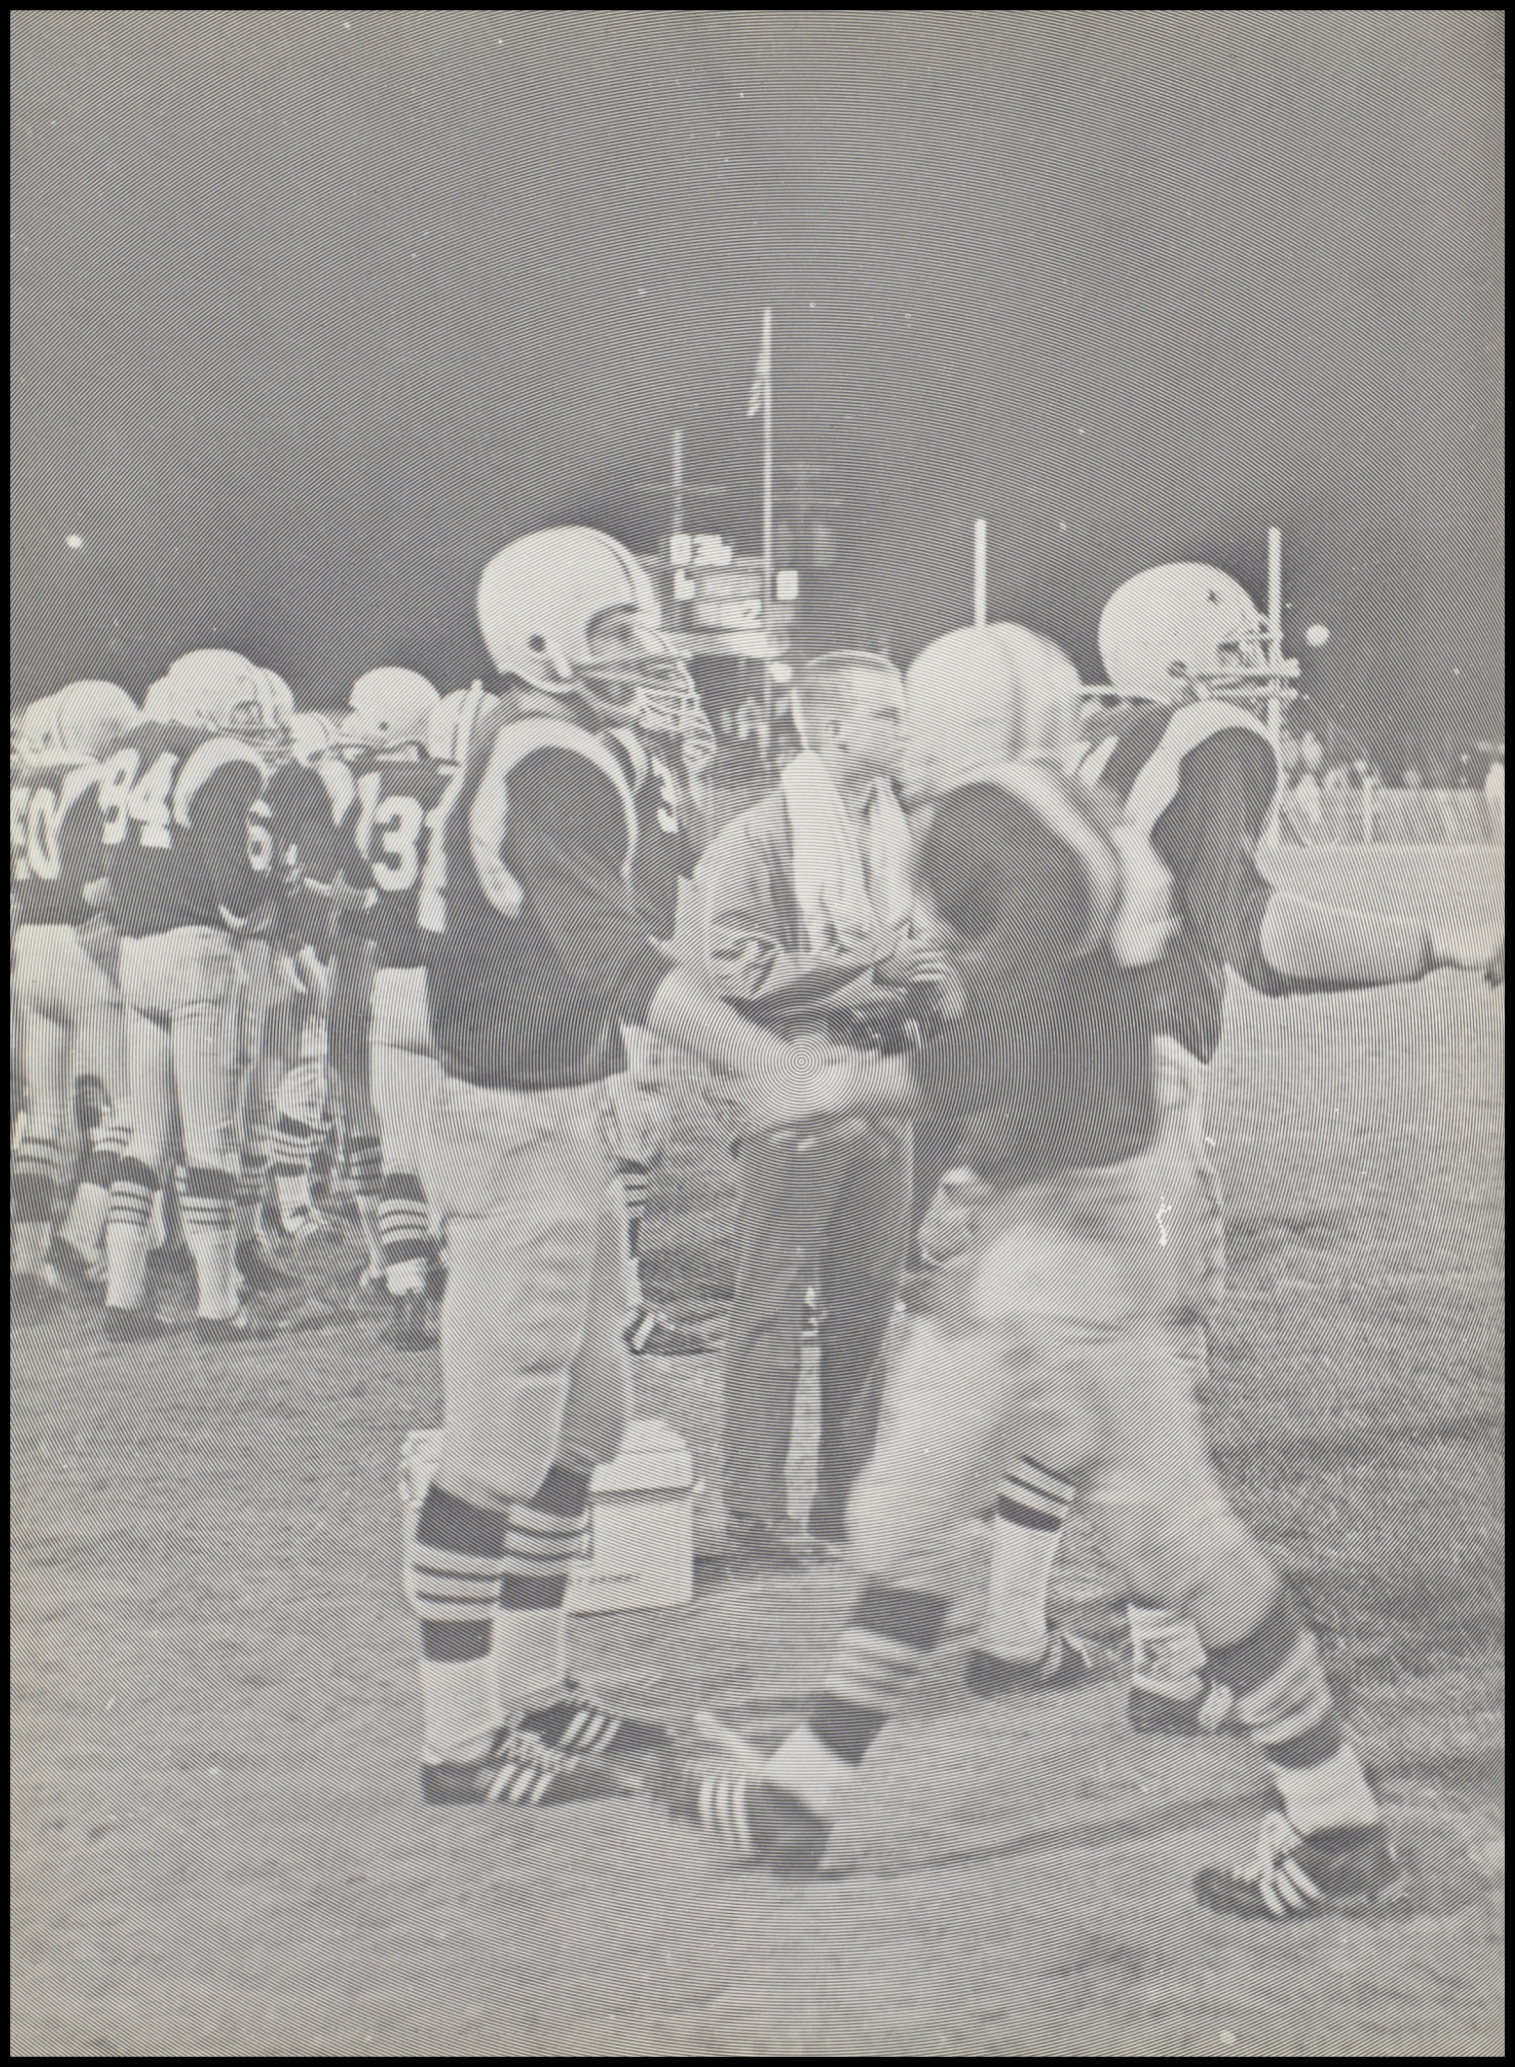

Natalia (Jane Zable) comforts Lomov (Rick Ansorge) and her father (Gary Albaugh) sits waiting for "A Marriage Proposal."

As the real Jesus Christ (Mark Davis) does stand up, the imposters Bill Cosgrove, Tom Nelson, Joe Harmon, and Greg Bloom stand by degrading him.

Varsity gridders end second in conference, twelfth in state poll

"Victory" was the by-word to the 1969 varsity football season as the Huskies compiled a 6-1 conference and a 7-2 overall mark, their best record ever.

At the end of the season, second place in the Metropolitan Conference and a twelfth place rating in the state belonged to the matured Huskies.

The season had many highlights including a long-awaited victory over Roosevelt, Coach Bill Hodam's one-hundredth career win, against Lincoln, and the school's first victorious homecoming, over Valley.

The offense relied on ball control, racking up 109 first downs to only 87 for their opponents and grinding out 2038 yards total offense. Junior back Terry Martin personally accounted for 1101 of these yards. The offensive squad also scored a record-breaking 33 points against East.

Pups' best season yet; Attain 3-4-1 record

Following the example of their varsity counterparts, the Pup gridders fought to their best season, ending with a 3-4-1 mark.

After failing to win four of their first five games, the Pups rallied to gain victories in two of the three remaining contests. Their first triumph over Dowling was the first sophomore victory since the school's opening year.

Offensively, the sophs were led by Scott Millsap who scored 44 points and ground out 33 yards. Scott Thomas was the leading defender.

Cross Country team extends streak with 7-0 varsity season

The varsity cross country squad compiled a 7-0 dual record in 1969 in extending their winning streak to 24 meets over a three year period. The Harriers also captured the Metropolitan Conference crown for the second consecutive year.

Rich Twedt, Ned Skinner, and Bob Hughes, who led the team throughout the season, ran to a second place finish in the Hoover Invitational and a third place finish in the State Mile Run. In the State Cross Country Run, the Huskies finished second to Waterloo Columbus by only one point and were, timewise, the second fastest squad in the state.

Junior varsity and sophomore harriers continued their domination in the city by racking up perfect 7-0 and 8-0 records.

The junior varsity squad captured the first three places in six of their seven meets while adding to Hoover's undefeated season with a 7-0 mark. They also captured first place in the city meet, grabbing the first 13 spots with the exception of number two.

Cagers win Metro and district titles

The 1969-1970 cage season was a record one for the Huskies as they came away with an 18-3 mark, the Metropolitan Conference title, and were district champions.

Nine seniors completed their careers as Hoover players, including Jack Huff, Rick Wittenbaugh, and Ted Christensen, starters for three years. Huff also became the fifth player in city history to hit 1000 career points as he totaled 1008.

Jeff Jensen, along with Huff, was named to the all-city first team, with Wittenbaugh gaining a second team berth and Christensen and John John getting honorable mention.

J.V. team reaches new scoring record

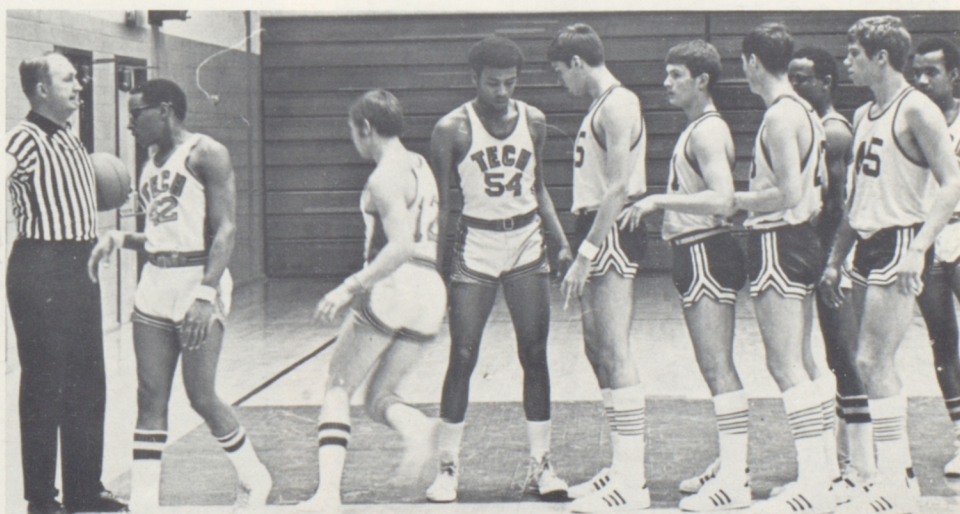

It's more than just the five starters that make up the Metropolitan Conference championship team. The boys who saw little varsity action got their chance to play in the Junior Varsity games.

The players made jokes about the J.V. team, but they were obviously serious about basketball as they compiled a 9-0 record and finished first in the conference. Impressive victories included a 122-33 victory over Tech and a 103-61 win over North. Dan Schwartz was the team's leading scorer.

The team was also known as the "Golden Eagles" because of their bright gold jerseys. They were coached by Norm Blake.

Pups end at 9-9, 8-6 in Metro play

The Husky Pups, Hoovers' sophomore basketball team, compiled a 9-9 overall record for the 1969-1970 season and went 8-6 in the conference.

Steve Dickinson led the sophs in scoring with 252 points and set a new record for best free throw percentage in a game at 100%. Tom Revell led the team in rebounding by grabbing 155 total. The sophs offensive average was 47.2. Another new record was set by Randy Thomas, who shot 56% from the field to break the old mark for best percentage in a season.

The varsity wrestling squad had its most successful season so far when they compiled a 5-6-1 record and finished fourth in the conference and second in the sectional.

Steve Denman and Ross Lulu led the team by becoming city champions and being voted most valuable players. Denman also was the Huskies first state meet qualifier. He completed his high school career with a 42-15-2 record.

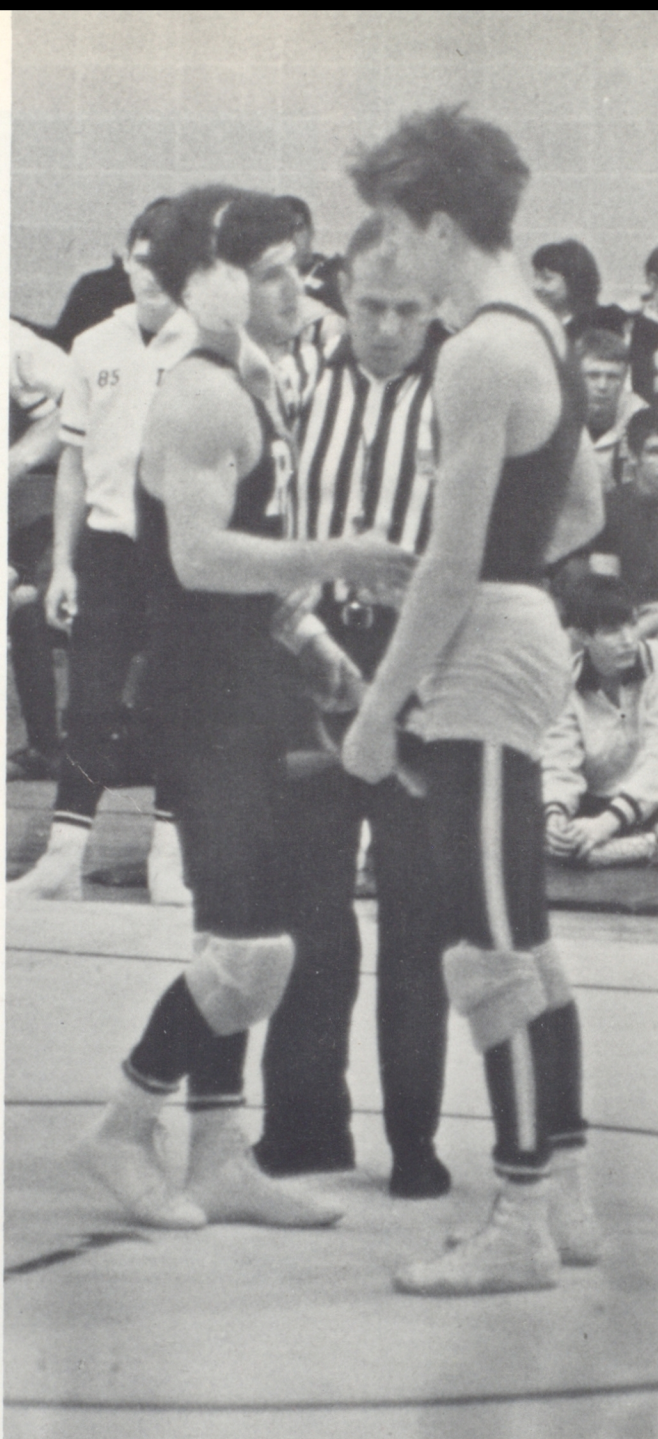

The team set 25 new records this year, including fastest pin, set by Bill Thatcher at 1:12, and most escapes, at 14 in a season, held by Mark Scherer.

J.V. matmen, sophs gain finest seasons

Following in the footsteps of the varsity squad, the junior varsity wrestlers also racked up their finest season yet with an 8-3 record. Led by Tom Runkel, who holds records for most wins at 10 and most pins at 5, and Mike Coborn, who finished 8-3, the J.V. squad was unofficially third in the conference.

Sophomore matmen ended at 4-4 and were sparked by Gary Noyes and Kirk Devine, who had 12-8-1 and 10-3 records respectively.

Leading the 15 man team as top scorers were Rick Hadden and John Price. They were coached by Bob Colby and Pat Donnelly. Practices for the Huskies, who were not school sponsored, were at the Ice Arena. Games took place Sunday nights.

Marlins recapture state championship

The Hoover Marlins went undefeated throughout their season and topped it all with a repeat of the state championship title they won last year.

They ended first in city dual-meet competition with a 5-0 record and impressive wins over Valley and Roosevelt.

Candy Bloodsworth led the team with her record-breaking state and district performances in the 200 yard individual medley and 100 yard breaststroke. The 200 yard medley relay team of Janet Ford, Gail Hand, Denise Clymer, and Ann Edgar also continually won for the Marlins.

Varsity swimmers record 8-1 season

The varsity swimming team had it's best season ever by compiling an 8-1 dual meet record, breaking six school records, and qualifying 7 individuals and two relay teams for the state meet.

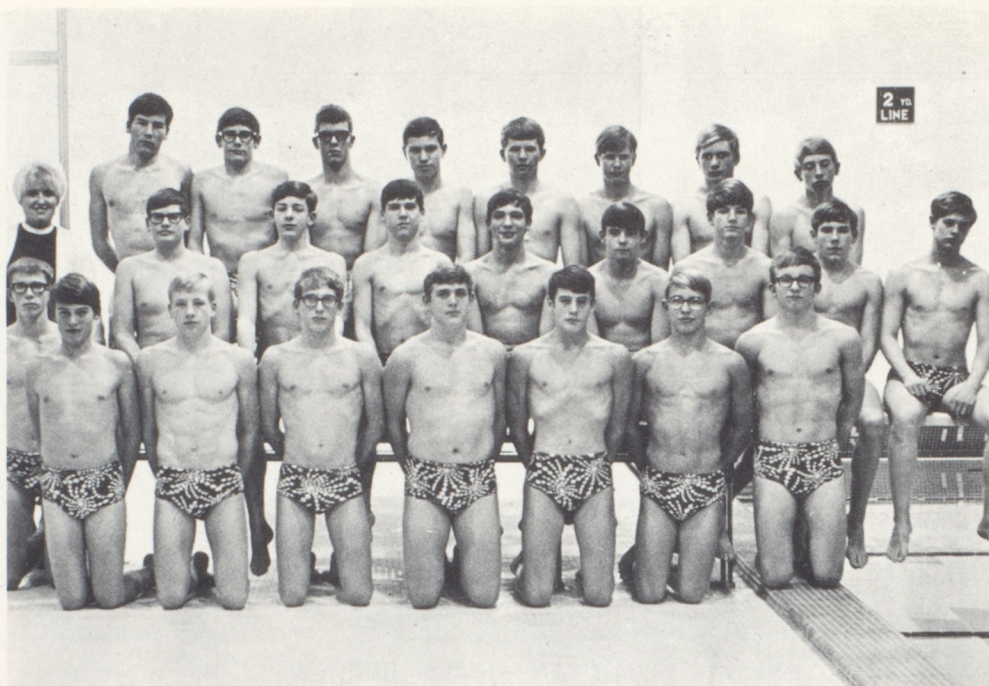

The only meet loss for the Huskies was to Roosevelt by a score of 55-40. They finished third in the city behind the Riders and Lincoln.

In state competition, diver Rick McAnally finished second, Eric Soleglad gained sixth in the 250 individual medley, John Arnot was seventh in the 450 free, and the 400 free relay team came in eighth.

Hoover boys join YMCA waterpolo

A number of Hoover boys were able to participate on a YMCA-sponsored waterpolo team with Bob Helmick of the Y and Hoover swimming coach Dave Linder directing.

The waterpolo season lasted nearly eight months out of the year with a fall season at the Y, spring playing against high schools, and a complete summer program.

The weekend of April 18, the boys traveled to Chicago to compete in a national tournament, and over Christmas those not on the Husky boys' swimming team competed in Puerto Rico.

Practices were every morning from 7:30 to 8 o'clock.

Trackmen return full of experience

The Hoover trackmen relied on returning let-termen to carry them through this year's track season, which promised to be one of the best. Under the direction of head coach Robert Wells, they showed good possibilities in the shot, discus, and long distance running.

In their first meets of the season, the trackmen downed Roosevelt, Dowling, Urbandale, and Southeast Polk. Their strongest competition came from Lincoln.

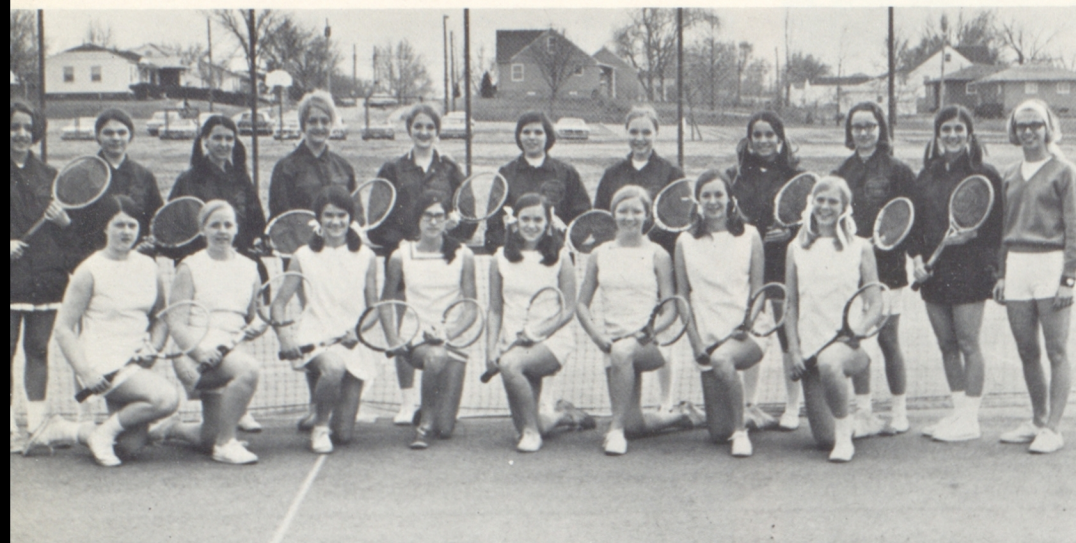

Leading the team were Rich Twedt and Ned Skinner in the one and two mile, and Ron Davis in sprints.

Highlighting the 1970 tennis season was the addition of two new coaches, Mr. Gene Tychsen for the boys and Miss Pam Herrick for the girls. Practices began in March, and the first meets were held in April. The girls won their first two meets over St. Joseph's and Indianola.

Seven lettermen returned to the boys squad. This was the first season that Hoover was able to use their own tennis courts throughout the entire season.

Golfers depend on returning lettermen

The Hoover golf teams stood at opposite ends of the experience pole this year as the boys only had two returning lettermen while the girls had five letter winners out again.

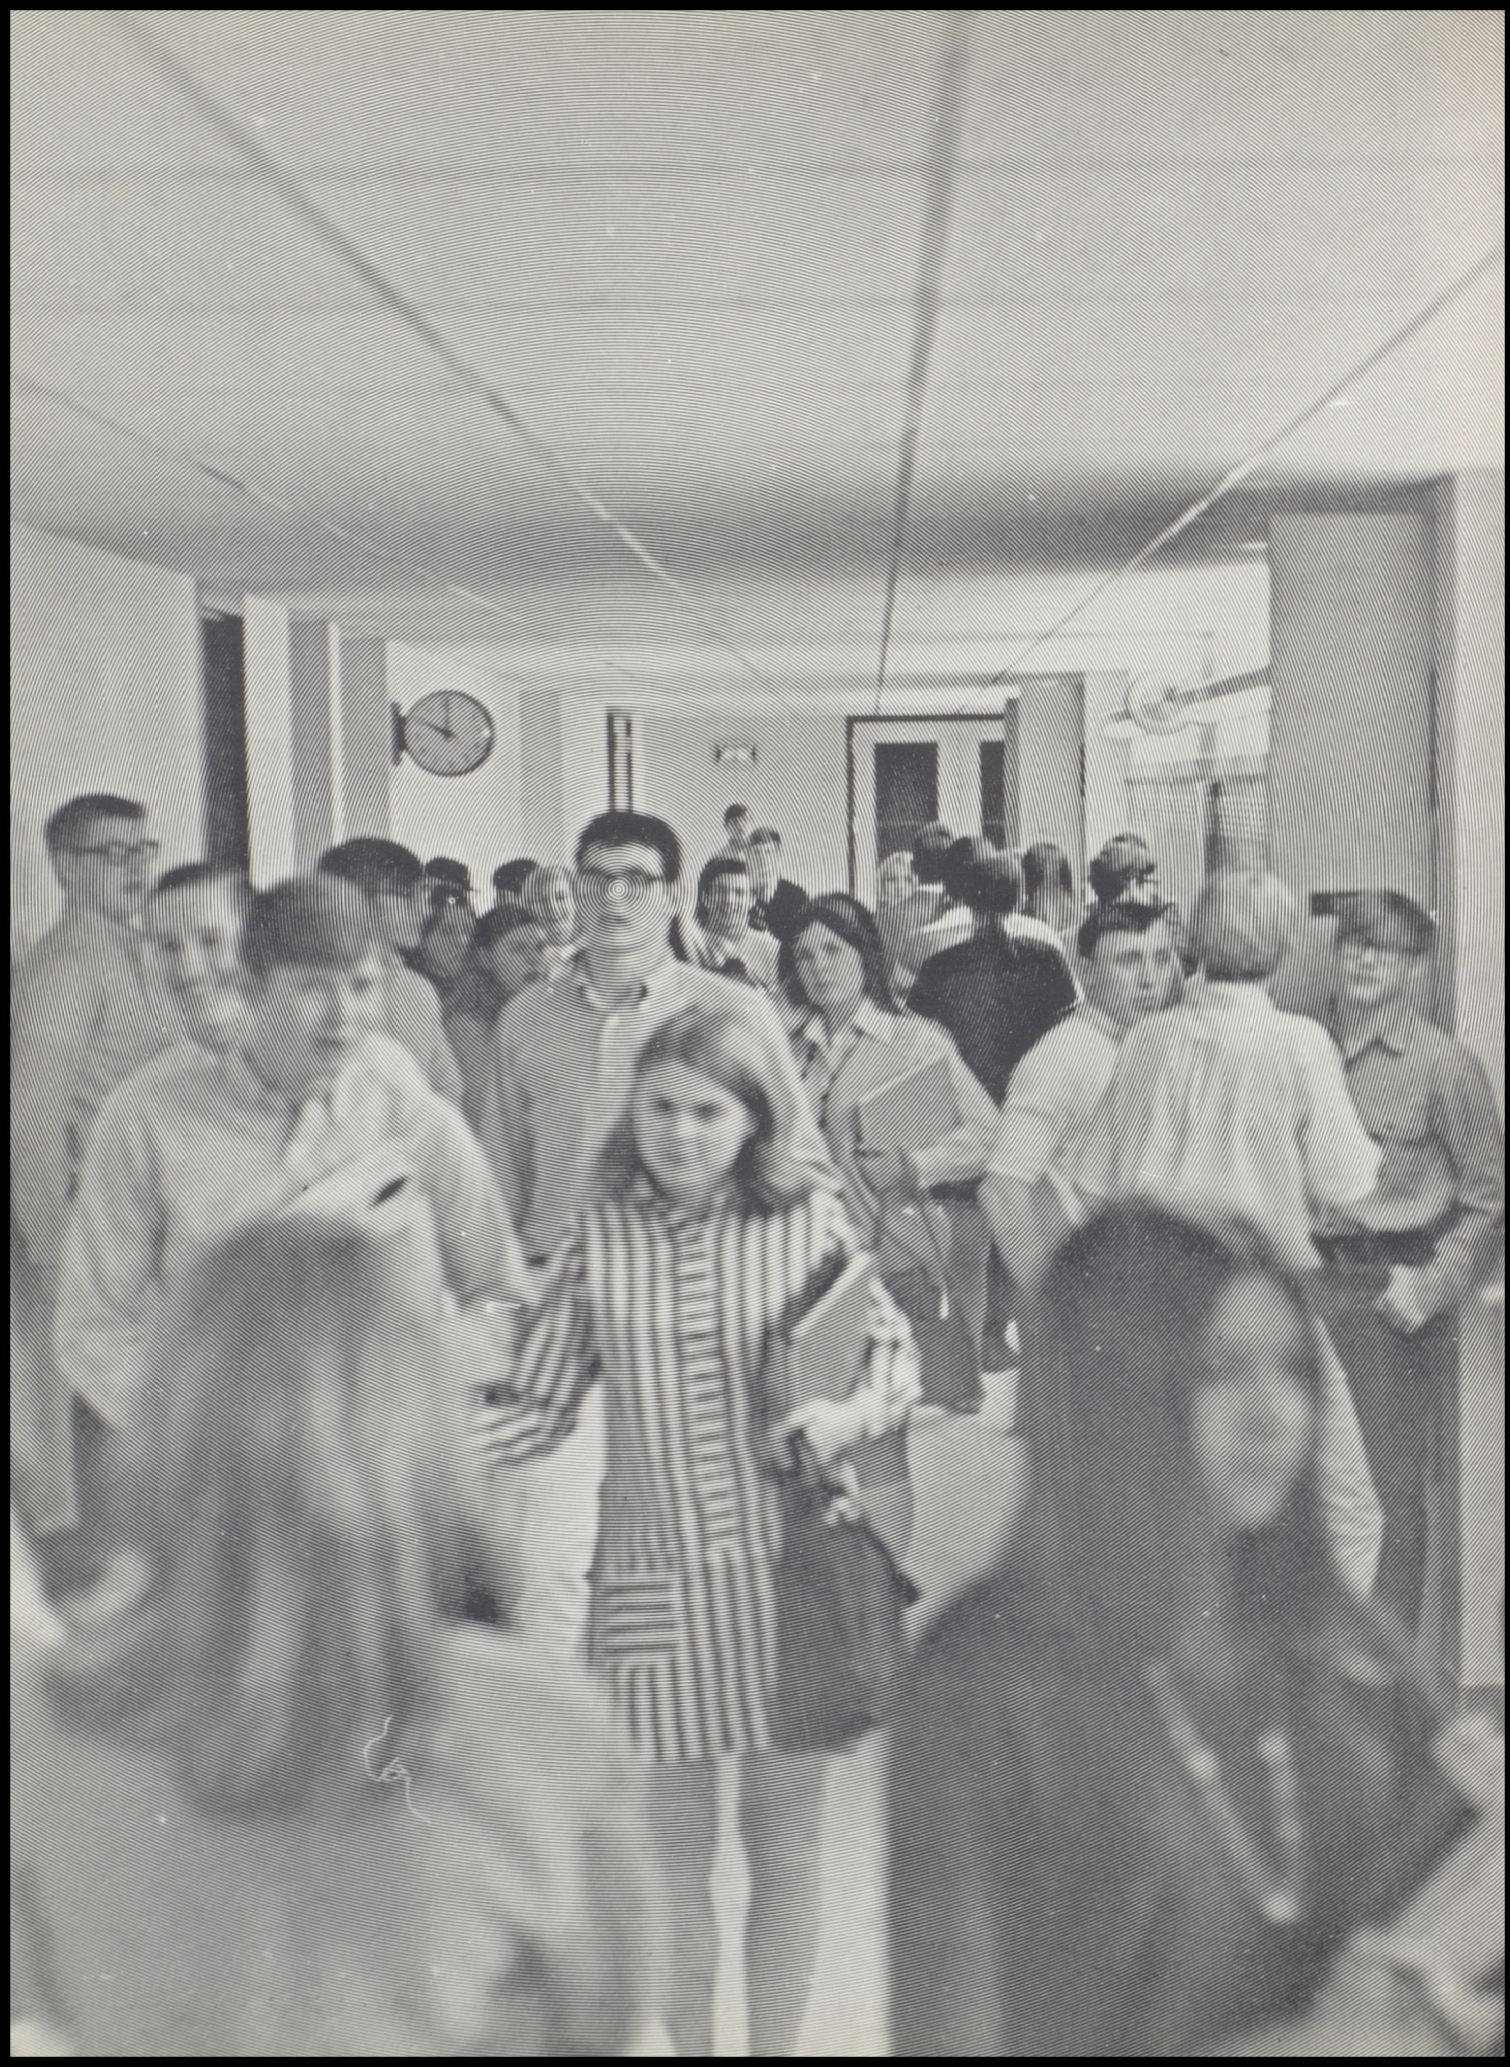

Under Coach Jim Stark, the team hoped to equal or improve on last year's finishes of first in the city for the girls and second for the boys.

The boys depended on seniors John Taylor and Mark Guslan. The girls leading players were Nancy Lynner, Barb Merrill, and Sue Carlson.

PERSPECTIVES OF CLASSES

Seniors strive for excellence in all phases of Hoover

As the first graduating class to complete three full years at Hoover, the 1970 seniors left behind them valuable leadership and accomplishments.

With them in the lead, Hoover excelled in all phases of high school life—from athletics to academics, to knowing how to have a good time.

It was a unique class, marked by its wide variety of individuals. There were those who preferred bell bottoms and Vietnam to letter sweaters and football games. Nevertheless, the senior class was unified, each contributing in his own way to make Hoover the greatest.

As graduation day drew near and activities flew by all too fast, they had the realization that the greatest years of their lives were coming to a close.

Class of 1971 matures into unique individuals

As sophomores, the members of the class of '71 had been a driving force behind Hoover High School. Their spirit and vitality was found in all of Hoover's organizations and at many school functions.

As these 412 students matured and became juniors, many found there was more to life and society than Hoover and its activities. Their golden images of life and society were tarnished by these discoveries, and many found it necessary to rebuild their dreams. In doing this, the class of '71 became more than just another class; it became a unique collection of individuals.

Sophomores show usual enthusiasm

Full of expectations for the upcoming year, the members of the class of '72 entered Hoover and brought a freshness and new vitality to the school. With typical sophomore eagerness, these individuals became actively engaged and were the backbone of many Hoover organizations.

As the year progressed, these 444 young adults proved to the rest of the school that they were an integral part of our school. Through sports, extra-curricular activities, the class of '72 brought honor to Hoover High School.

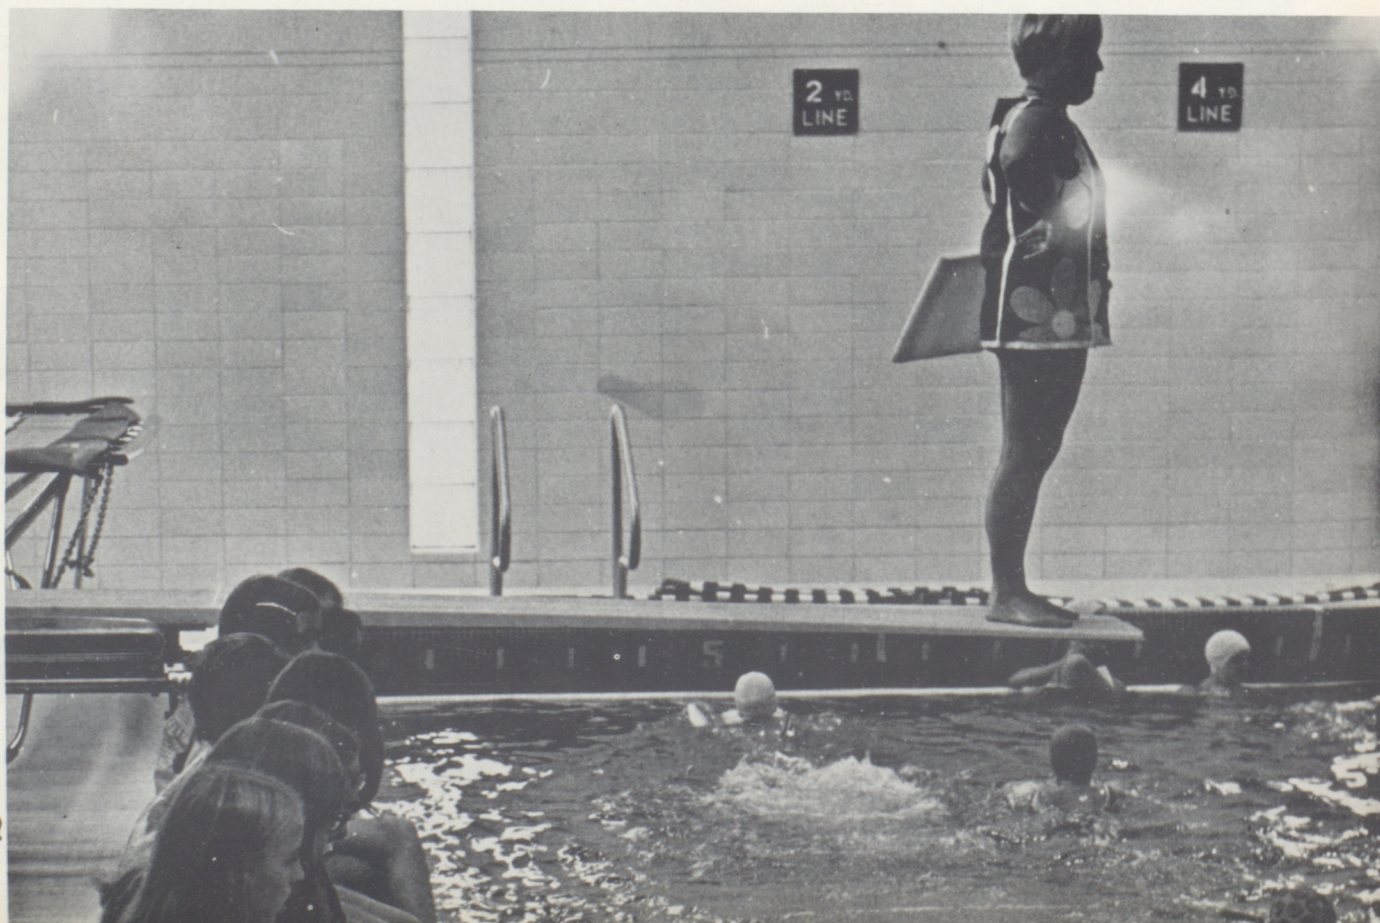

A new experience for many sophomores girls was "drowning" in the Hoover pool.

When you get down to the BARE facts,
the Class of '71 is second to none!

IS THE WORLD GROWING FAST ENOUGH?

It depends. Either population is growing too fast or food production is not growing fast enough. World population may double in 33 years. Does this mean mass starvation? Not if we develop today's agriculture and harness coming breakthroughs in feeds, fertilizers, farming methods, and machinery. Can the world grow food fast enough? John Deere equipment and dealers will help farmers make the answer to this question "yes."

As part of Youngkers firm belief in the young people of today, a program is offered each year for the Des Moines area schools...TEEN BOARD for junior and senior girls, and ADVISORY BOARD for junior and senior boys. These young people, selected to represent their schools, are chosen for leadership qualities, high scholastic standings, personal recommendations from school administrators and evaluation from members of the retiring boards, plus their interest and ability in retail and fashion. They participate in special fashion shows during the year, give talks in their schools and to other groups on good grooming, publish a monthly newsletter and work in various junior departments each Saturday. Youngkers salutes the representatives from Hoover High School for a job very well done.

In looking back over all the things that happened in producing the 1970 Husky, several memories come to my mind. I recall my burning desire to accomplish something great, deadlines that came and went unnoticed, differences of opinion among staff members that at times made working together a strain, desperately counting on friends for support and having them let me down, being so grateful when somebody finally got something done that I couldn't find the words to show any appreciation, numerous questions like "How's it going, Sue?", constant worry about doing the right thing, a growing sense of failure, wanting the year to be over, and knowing I'll never go through it again. These recollections stay in my mind more than anything else.

Two people very close to me deserve commendation for the role they played in helping me reach my goal—that of producing this book. One, Kathy Burns, recognized my interest in journalism as a sophomore, worked with me, encouraged me, and gave me needed confidence in myself, and the other, Mark Davis, this year provided me with the motivation, understanding, and moral support to do my job. To these two friends I owe a debt of gratitude I can never repay.

At last the yearbook is completed. I can only look at it with a sigh of long-awaited, complete, and utter relief.
